U.S. halts military operation in North

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United States suspended all offensive military operations in North Vietnam today amid increasing speculation that the secret peace talks with the North Vietnamese may have resulted in an agreement on a cease-fire.

President Nixon ordered the halt effective at 10 a.m. EST "because of the progress made" in the Paris peace talks, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced in Key Biscayne, where Nixon is staying.

Ziegler called the action "a unilateral gesture" and refused to comment on reports that Henry A. Kissinger, the President's negotiator in the secret talks, may have reached an agreement with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

Ziegler said Kissinger, who conferred extensively with Nixon Sunday after his return from Paris, had met with Nixon again this morning and would be going back to Paris "at some point in the relatively near future."

Nixon acted as reports in Saigon suggested that compromises have been reached on the issues that have been blocking a settlement. There was speculation that a full ceasefire might even be declared sometime this week.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who has been President Nixon's intermediary with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, was en route to Saigon and expected to arrive early Tuesday.

South Vietnamese sources said Haig was carrying the revised draft of a peace agreement. Sources also indicated that the outlines of the agreement already have been conveyed to Thieu by Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam.

Thieu, meanwhile, met with his National Security Council, his closest group of senior aides. Official sources said the meeting lasted eight hours, the longest the council has ever held.

An estimate that a cease-fire might occur "as early as this week" was reported by a CBS television correspondent in Saigon, Richard Wagner, who said it was obtained from "highly reliable palace sources in Saigon."

Well-informed sources in Saigon told The Associated Press that there was a possibility of a compromise by Thieu on his demand that any agreement specifically provide for the total withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam.

The sources said the compromise would involve a "tacit understanding" on withdrawal in the peace treaty itself, with provisions spelling it out placed in an accompanying technical protocol.

CBS' Wagner said his sources reported "tacit recognition" by Hanoi of the Saigon government, acceptance by Hanoi of a "temporary military and political demarcation line in Vietnam at the 17th Parallel, and agreement on a larger control commission to supervise a cease-fire.

Four more plead guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four more of the Watergate political espionage defendants pleaded guilty today, leaving only two of the original seven defendants at trial.

The guilty plea was entered by a new court-appointed attorney of Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez, Frank A. Surgis and Virgilio R. Gonzalez, all from the Miami area.

The plea brought to five the number of defendants who have withdrawn from the trial since it opened a week ago. Last Wednesday, former White House consultant E. Howard Hurt pleaded guilty to all charges.

The exit of four more defendants, leaving only two at the once-crowded defense table, raised serious questions as to whether the trial could continue.

Gerald Alch, attorney for one of the remaining defendants, James W. McCord Jr., said before court opened that he would seek a mistrial if the guilty pleas were offered, claiming the jury would conclude, even though it wouldn't be told, that the others had admitted guilt. The other remaining defendant is G. Gordon Liddy.

The new guilty pleas were offered by court-appointed attorney Al Newmeyer, in lieu of New York lawyer Henry B. Rothblatt, who had represented the four through the first week of trial but had refused to have them plead guilty.

Like Hunt, the four were required to plead guilty to all of the counts against them.

All four were charged with seven counts of an eight-count indictment and face maximum possible prison sentences of 55 years each. All four have CIA backgrounds dating from the Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion.

Sources close to the defense had said earlier that the Miami four had been under intense pressure to plead guilty and avoid a full airing of the charges against them, stemming from the burglary of Democratic party headquarters here last summer. The withdrawal of five of the seven defendants makes it unlikely that the full evidence in the case will be made public, at least in this trial.

Before the guilty pleas were announced, U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica revealed that the Miamians had written a letter last Friday firing Rothblatt as their lawyer because of his refusal to change their pleas to guilty. At their request, Sirica appointed Newmeyer for the purpose of presenting new pleas.

18 injured in area accidents

Eight area traffic accidents over the weekend resulted in injuries to 18 persons, according to the highway patrol.

Clarence Lane Jr., 22, of Hayti received head cuts at 5:30 p.m. Saturday on Route B one- half mile north of Pascola when he ran into the rear of a bobtruck parked on the pavement. The truck was owned by Arthur Stanley, 53, of Pascola.

Lane was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

An accident at 6:15 p.m. Saturday at the junction of Highways 60 and 114 caused injuries to four persons.

Injured were George Webber, 34, of Dexter, possible chest injuries; Jack Wilson, 25, of Sikeston, cuts to his ear; Joann Webber, 34, possible neck and chest injury; and Kim Webber, 12, minor cuts. They were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

The accident occurred when William Cannon, 58, of Sikeston was blinded by a parked car. His car crossed the center line and struck a car driven by George Webber head-on.

Roy Mann, 25, of Piedmont received serious head and neck injuries at 10 p.m. Saturday four miles east of Piedmont on Highway 34 when his car ran off the road, and struck a bridge, tearing up about 24 feet of bridge railing.

He was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Three persons were injured Saturday in an accident three miles south of East Prairie on Spanish Grant Road when a car driven by Garry Roper, 18, of Benton, Ill. ran off the road to avoid hitting a pickup truck.

Injured were Roper and two passengers, Joyce Moore, 15, and Dianne Campbell, 16, of East Prairie. They all received minor back injuries and were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

At 11:30 p.m. Saturday one and one- half mile south of Senath on Township Road a car driven by Mary Matthews, 33, of Malden came to an intersection, continued on and struck a ditch and embankment.

Injured in the accident were Mrs. Matthews, head cuts, and two passengers, Kirk Flannery, 42, of Bernie, possible internal injuries and cuts, and Connie Days, 27, of Malden, cuts. All were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

Deborah Reynolds, 20, of Paragould, Ark. received serious injuries at 1:50 p.m. Sunday one mile south of Senath on Highway 25 when the car in which she was riding struck the left side of a car driven by Carolyn Elkins, 34, of Senath.

Also injured were Jesse Breeden, 21, of Carwell, who suffered a back injury and Cecil Chamberlain, 49, of Cardwell Route One a passenger in the Breeden auto, who received bruises and scratches. They were taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

The accident occurred when the Elkins car was attempting to make a left turn as the Breeden auto attempted to pass.

At 5:30 p.m. Sunday on Highway 72 eight miles east of Ironton, a car driven by Robert Inman, 18, of Ironton, ran off the right side of the road, came back across, struck an embankment and overturned.

Injured in the accident were Inman, who received head cuts and bruises on his left knee and Rennee Sansocie, 16, of Marquand, who suffered multiple cuts to her head, scalp and face. Both were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Ironton.

Cathy Daniels, 24, of Sikeston received a broken arm and head and elbow cuts at 7:3 a.m. today on Highway 60, one- tenth of a mile west of Sikeston when her car slid sideways on ice and struck an auto driven by James Priest, 26, of Poplar Bluff.

She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Two arrested for disorderly conduct

Robert Horton, 106 E. Center, was arrested early Saturday morning after he allegedly threatened an East Prairie man and tried to run him off the road.

Jimmy Manning of East Prairie told police he had stopped at A & B Oil Company when Horton came up and threatened to beat him. Manning said he left the station and Horton followed and tried to run him off the road with his truck.

Horton was brought to the police station at 1:30 a.m. and had to be forcibly detained at the booking room. Horton reportedly told police he was going back to Chicago and get his friends to come and burn Sikeston to the ground.

Police finally booked Horton on charges of careless and imprudent driving, disorderly conduct and two counts of disturbing the peace.

Horton's companion, Robert Allan Palmer of Memphis, Tenn., was also arrested for peace disturbance and disorderly conduct.

Horton was turned over to New Madrid County authorities on common assault charges. Horton is believed to be the man who beat a service station attendant at the intersection of Interstate 55 and Route Y near Kewanee.

Horton and Palmer are alleged to have used loud and profane language at the station in the presence of women. Brown asked the men to leave, and when they refused, an altercation occurred, according to New Madrid authorities.

Palmer was still in the Sikeston jail this morning.

William Franklin Evans, 520 E. Center was arrested for driving while intoxicated Saturday after his car struck an automobile driven by Herschel Michael Ellis, 906 Davis.

Ellis, who police say failed to stop at a stop sign, was charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Police said Ellis failed to stop at the Corner of North Prairie and East Center about 4:30 p.m.

Three persons, Harold Ray Smith, 520 E. Center; Linton Jacobs, 927 Lake; and Dona MacLaughlin, 906 Davis, were treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital for minor injuries.

Police said Evans turned onto Center from Moore Avenue about 10:30 a.m., pulled into the wrong lane of traffic and narrowly missed a head- on collision with a police car.

Other arrests announced today include:

James Louie Barber, 502 W. Gladys, driving while license revoked; Willie Robinson, Route Three, speeding;

Willie Cage Jr. of Chicago, fraudulent use of a stolen credit card; and Charles Junior White of Advance Route One, failure to yield for an emergency vehicle.

Chronic alcoholism believed cause of Russelburg's death

Thomas Russelburg, 33, of 833 Lake Street, was pronounced dead at 12:50 p.m. Saturday in front of his home by Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee.

Nunnelee said the cause of death appeared to be chronic alcoholism. An autopsy was performed Sunday in Morganfield, Ky., at the request of the family, Nunnelee said, but the results have not been received.

Nunnelee said there were no marks on the body to indicate foul play.

Russelburg had reportedly been drinking heavily before his death. According to police reports, he and several other persons had been at a friend's home in Morehouse where he drank a fifth of whisky and some beer.

Saturday morning one of those at the party, Lynn Casey of 842 Linn St., put Russelburg in the back seat of his car and drove him home. Casey said he thought Russelburg had fallen asleep. It was only after he stopped the car at Russelburg's home and tried to awaken him that he discovered Russelburg was dead.

Nunnelee said Casey was not under any suspicion in the death.

Russelburg was born April 26, 1939 in Morganfield, Ky., and was a salesman for the Nestle Co.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Louise VanCleave, Mrs. Betty Ann Gipson, a sister, and his grandmother, Mrs. Mable Greenwell, all of Morganfield.

The body was removed from Nunnelee Funeral Home Sunday to Whitsell Funeral Home in Morganfield.

Funeral Mass will be conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Ann's Catholic Church with the pastor of the church officiating.

Burial will be in St. Agnes Cemetery in Uniontown, Ky.

Package store burglarized

NEW MADRID — Bill's Package Store on Highway 61 South was burglarized early Sunday morning for the second time since Dec. 10. Officer Russell Cobb discovered the break-in soon after the business closed at 1 a.m.

Marshall O. E. Householder and deputy sheriff Flip Dees, who investigated, said the break-ins appear to have been committed by the same people. According to the officers, the building was entered in an identical manner in both breakins by forcing open a rear door.

Body found

NEW MADRID — The body of Joe Robbins, 18, of Bastrop, La., who had been missing since Dec. 21 when he reportedly had fallen off a twoboat in New Madrid, was found at 3:30 p.m. Sunday two miles south of Caruthersville at Chute 16 on the bank of the Mississippi River.

SOLUTION TO
ATOMIC WASTE?

Not the least of thyproblems associated with atomic energy, which we once thought would solve mankind's energy needs for all time, is how to dispose of highly dangerous atomic waste.

The method currently used today is the deep underground burial of radioactive by-products ranging from depleted uranium cores to contaminated gloves. But the radioactivity may take hundreds or thousands of years to decompose to safe levels, and critics worry about what would happen if a burial site were fractured by an earthquake.

A German engineer has come up with a bold idea — firing the wastes into the great big nuclear furnace we call the sun.

It would be costly, he admits, but so is burial. The beauty part is that the radioactivity of the wastes could be utilized, under the right circumstances, to power the rockets that carry them.

LOOK WHAT'S
ERODING RACISM

Building trades unionists in South Africa are urging the government to lift its restrictions against black workers in favor of equal pay for equal work.

Under present law, government tribunals can declare certain trades "for whites only." But they can also grant exemptions to meet shortages of white manpower.

While the union complaints are seen by some as a major blow against South Africa's policy of apartheid, or racial separation, the development is not basically the result of changed racial attitudes. Rather, it is an interesting consequence of the country's continuing economic boom and accompanying labor shortage.

The fact is, say unionists, that job reservation rules have been so eroded by government exemptions that they no longer protect white workers.

Already, points out a spokesman for the Amalgamated Union of Building Trade Workers, blacks are doing about 35 per cent of the jobs in the trade, but are paid only about 35 cents an hour compared with an average $1.95 an hour for whites.

"This situation is totally untenable and must be halted if the whites are not eventually going to be completely undermined," he says.

The situation should also give pause to those people in other countries, including stockholders in American firms with investments in South Africa, who advocate an economic blockade to force South Africa to abandon apartheid.

The evidence strongly suggests that prosperity is doing more to soften South Africa's rigid racism than any amount of protest or pressure might accomplish.

WHY WE OPPOSE
BRENNAN
CONFIRMATION

For several years, leading thinkers from both the right and left, and every political spectrum in between, have bewailed the deterioration of individual liberties in America. The government of the people, by the people, and for the people, they have complained has become a captive government of the few, by the few, and for the few.

If turning over the U. S. Department of Labor to union boss Peter J. Brennan is any indication, we are inclined to agree.

Brennan's appointment marks an end to the notion that the average wage-earner can expect a fair shake from his government. It could mark the beginning of a frightening new era in which the already excessive powers of top union officials may be expanded until possibly there is nothing left of individual freedom for the employee. We hope not.

Few other men we could think of, save George Meany and some of his cronies, could be less representative of the 80 million job holders of America, the majority of whom (62 million) have chosen not to affiliate with unions. Few other men could be more contemptuous of the right of these 62 million to continue to disassociate with organized labor if they please. The wishes, beliefs and needs of the majority of American working people are as strange to Peter J. Brennan as democracy to a tiger.

Champions of union privilege, of course, are ecstatic over the Brennan nomination. They envision a Secretary of Big Labor presiding over a national labor policy that increases the powers of union officials and further limits the individual freedom of the working man.

Over the past few years, union membership has actually declined as a percentage of the workforce. But with Peter Brennan as Secretary of Big Labor, union officials look to new "glory days" when millions of additional rank - and - file employees will be forced to kick into union coffers for the right to earn a living. As a matter of fact, professional union lobbyists already have begun gearing up for a major legislative campaign to force union membership on public employees and farm workers.

Two out of three Americans flatly reject the idea that employment should be based on anything but ability. They feel strongly that Americans should have the right to decide for themselves when and if they want to join a labor union. But Peter J. Brennan would deny them the right to make this choice.

That is why we oppose his confirmation.

We invite every American who is concerned with his own freedom and that of his fellow employees to join with us by writing his Senators and the White House. Top union officials must be denied this opportunity to further curtail individual liberties.

TREES FOR TOMORROW

Tree plantings by newly-weds was a custom that flourished in 18th century Europe. The trees served as a symbol of the couple's hopes that their marriages, too, would grow in health and happiness. Now newlyweds in Hamburg, West Germany, are reviving the custom for a practical, space- age reason: trees absorb hydrocarbons discharged by cars and factory chimneys and release life-giving oxygen.

In the united States, where Arbor Day originated in 1872, tree planting is becoming increasingly popular as Americans strive to protect their environment and beautify the land. This year the Arbor Day Foundation and Burlington Northern Railroad have joined to mark the centennial of Arbor Day during the month of April by planting trees in memory of the day's founder, J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska, a former Burlington official. The railroad is sponsoring ceremonial tree plantings in 27 cities from coast to coast to encourage thousands of individuals and families to do the same.

TRANSPO CROWDS SEE
DEMONSTRATION
OF 'PEOPLE MOVERS'

Thousands of visitors to Transpo - 72, the United States International Transportation Exposition, Washington, D. C., were given a preview of the "people movers" of tomorrow.

Some companies exhibited scale models or real size models on static display, but the companies with actual "people movers," received maximum attention. People waited in line several hours to take demonstration rides.

Visiting dignitaries from both the United States and abroad as well as the general public showed real interest in the movers which were displayed by Bendix Corp., Rohr Industries, Ford Motor Co., and Otis Elevator Co.

According to Burt F. Raynes, chairman and chief executive, Rohr Industries has modern ground transportation systems which could be operating in cities across the country within a few years, helping to solve one of America's most critical urban problems.

Rohr exhibited advanced systems at Transpo, each designed to serve a different segment of a balanced transportation network. Some vehicles had steel wheels; others had rubber wheels or no wheels at all. One floats on air and another hangs in the air.

The Ford Motor Co., demonstrated a prototype transportation system that will speed passengers along an elevated guideway in electric cars, while the Bendix Dashaveyor personal rapid transit system featured two air-contained, electrically - powered vehicles along a 1,200 foot guideway. The Otis Elevator Co., showed a completely automated, electrically powered "Personal Rapid Transit."

AN ECONOMIC
PEARL HARBOR

For years, critics have scoffed at rail arguments made, or action taken, by rail spokesmen to relieve railroads of such things as money - losing passenger trains and archaic century - old regulation. Then came bankruptcy of the nation's largest rail system; and, coincidental with this event, issuance of one of the most significant studies of the railroads and transportation that has ever been made.

The report of this study, released by America's Sound Transportation Review Organization, is now public property. It tells the story of what the country, the transportation industry and the railroads can expect unless decisive action on a broad front is taken to put the Iron Horse back in good health. It is far from a pleasant story, and the General Counsel of the organization, former U. S. Senator George A. Smathers, presents it with stark clarity. He points out that the Report calls for such corrective measures as establishment of a federal transportation fund, a federally chartered rail corporation to be used as a means of rationalizing intercity rail passenger service and removal of "... anachronistic regulatory restraints ..."

Mrs. Smathers warns that the alternative to these corrective measures is nationalization of the rails at tremendous cost to the taxpayers. He advises railmen to, "Tell all of our citizens ... we're manning the bulwarks for our whole socio- economic system - - the system that has given more things to more people than any other system in all of history." It is no exaggeration to say that in the current problems of the railroads lie the seeds of an economic Pearl Harbor for the entire nation.

NEW RESTRICTIONS ARE NOT THE ANSWER

The proposed Foreign Trade and Investment Act of 1972, better known as the Burke- Hartke bill, is being suggested as a quick "solution" to such complex problems as domestic unemployment, rising imports and declining exports. Far from solving these domestic problems, the approaches being suggested would only worsen them for everyone, particularly the average working American.

For example, although it's popular to talk about tax reform, the tax provisions of the Burke- Hartke bill would require U.S. firms to pay a double tax on their foreign earnings. Since foreign governments either do not tax the foreign earnings of their multinational companies at all, or do not tax them until they are remitted back to the home country, U.S. firms would be unable to compete internationally and would be forced to give up foreign markets to foreign firms. Since 40 per cent of all U.S. manufactured exports go to the foreign affiliates of U.S. firms abroad, hundreds of thousands of U.S. jobs would be lost, to say nothing of the increase in our balance of payments deficit or the deterioration in the international competitive postion of American industry which would occur.

Our economic problems won't be solved through politically expedient solutions which pit labor, management and government against one another. What is needed are positive, innovative policies which attack the root causes of our current economic problems. Proposals like the Burke- Hartke bill are part of the problem- not the answer.

END TAX— PAID
JUNKETS BY LAME DUCKS

A long overdue measure which would save the government, which means the good working taxpayers, a lot of wasted dollars is a bill to prevent defeated Senators and Congressmen from taking junkets around the nation and around the world. There is good reason for many fact-finding trips by lawmakers who are remaining in office, but the practice of taking trips at taxpayers' expense, especially to exotic places, has become somewhat discredited, hence the name "junket" which has been attached to such tours.

While there is good reason for returning Senators and Congressmen to "see for themselves" in a great many instances, there is no good reason for a defeated lawmaker to be touring at the taxpayers' expense.

In some cases, the lawmaker is a "lame duck" for more than six months and whatever he learns on his junkets will be of no value to the new Congress which convenes without him. It may be of great advantage to the lame duck either for personal pleasure or for making profitable contacts, but the taxpayers should not have to pay for that.

A Republican from Illinois, Congressman Robert Michel, is to file the bill, doing so because of an excess of such junkets this year. Some lawmen were defeated in primaries last spring or early summer and still re given virtual blank check by their colleagues for various junkets. This kind of conduct can only breed contempt for both those who do it and for those who permit it to be done, the leadership of both Houses. Good working people will want to support such measures to stop wasteful spending. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- While explaining Phase Three to some newsmen, assistant President George Shultz said it was voluntary but the government had "a stick" which it could "take out of the closet" to "clobber" those who aren't too voluntary about the mostly non- mandatory pay- price control guidelines. "Standards" he called them.

Point is: who will decide who is greedily failing the test of self- administered standards of pay and price increases? Who will decide who is to be clobbered by the government?

It will be Harvard's Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, a most unlikely title for Johnny Dunlop, the new pay- price czar whom Shultz considers "the most experienced in the country if not in the world."

So just a brief word about Prof. Dunlop so ye shall know him and understand why we newsmen sometimes yelp.

There isn't anything anywhere-- and most importantly, anybody-- of consequence in the labor-management- production-industrial- social (meaning martini social) complex John Dunlop doesn't know. And he always works with the top.

Best description of Dunlop is in two unreported incidents. Some years ago some of us flew to Rome from various points in Europe for a labor-industrial- cultural conference during which the Pope was to be visited. We scooted in under a lowering ceiling. But Donlop's plane, winging from the U.S., had to circle Rome several times and was finally forced to head back for Paris.

Legend has it Dunlop took this as a personal insult and sought out the highest power to protest the meteorological affront. Only the American ambassador was available in Paris. Had the Almighty been reachable, Johnny Dunlop would have gone to that final authority. So he slept in Paris. But only because he couldn't reverse the weather.

But in the labor-management field there's little or few he hasn't been able to reverse or argue, bully, push, shove, cajole, arm- twist since he began in this field some 35 years ago.

And then there's that morning in the White House cabinet room about a year ago when President Nixon summoned the construction industry's labor and business leaders. With them came Johnny Dunlop, loaded with charts. They proved to the President that all was running smoothly and that they were one big, big, happy, happy family in the tribe- ridden $110 billion (annual) industry.

President Nixon asked how they managed to work together so effectively-- and quitely-- and how strikes had been cut in half and how the rate of pay increases was slowed. Both sides obviously had combed what was left of their hair so the scars didn't show. But they had been working together. And, in full consensus, they told Dick Nixon Dunlop was the "glue" which held them together. That's good, said the President mockingly rapping the desk. Those in the other industries come in fueding with each other and pounding the table.

So it doesn't look like any stick will be taken out of the closet.

Dunlop, new director of the Cost of Living Council, who now has Mr. Nixon's and Shultz's mandate as pay- price czar, doesn't clobber. He hasn't as chairman of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee which he will continue to run.

He uses power brokerage, intellectual leverage and a sort of mystical method of painlessly extracting just a little more money from employers to avoid a crisis, strike or public rhubarb. When the dying Pay Board got in his way he simply bypassed it and went to George Shultz. He stayed behind the scenes above the battle.

Thus he is the total symbol of the White House Phase Three philosopjy. Labor leaders feel no pain. They can deal with Dunlop. They know the pay increase standard still is a "voluntary" 5.5 per cent annually. But with Dunlop's special arts and sciences it will be higher and it will still look mighty like 5.5 per cent. And the employers will be promised and probably will get the concessions and productivity they seek.

That's why all the labor leaders invited to join the labor- management advisory committee of the Cost of Living Council accepted. The trade- off is there-- if their rank and files don't get overly greedy during the approaching massive collective bargaining in the '73- '74 season. Then Phase Three will phase out controls.

That's why George Meany, AFL— CIO president, who broke up the original tripartite Pay Board by leading a traditional labor walkout, swiftly praised the President's proposals.

The long presidential message to Congress and the intricate Phase Three proposals were officially available to newsmen at about 10 a.m. Thursday. The stories did not appear for hours. Yet the Meany statement was available about lunchtime. Obviously, the full text of the President's message had been cleared carefully with Meany and his advisory board colleagues, steel's I.W. Abel, the Seafarers' Paul Hall, as well as with the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmins and even with George McGovern's intimate, the auto workers' Leonard Woodcock.

And virtually all the businessmen on the advisory committee are respected by labor and are Johnny Dunlop's kind of commerce and industry executives.

The President and Shultz, with a lateral pass to Dunlop, actually have thrown the economic ball to the labor and industrial leaders. The White House theory is that if this voluntarism doesn't work, it will be the fault of the labor-management complex. And who then can blame him if he gets tough in many fashions at the beginning of '74?

It's a chancy game plan. But it sure is being chanced.

Unless, of course, the President has reason to believe the Vietnamese war is over.

Hal Boyle

Yes, the world is too predictable. It would be more interesting — and probably a lot more fun — if fantasy instead of fact were given more rein, and the unexpected happened more often.

Why, indeed, should our existence be so ruled and confined by the rut marks we make in our daily lives? Do we restrict our horizons out of ineptitute, laziness, ignorance of larger views, or shameful cowardice of spirit? We give up too much of our human possibility to the shibboleths of common sense and safety?

We escape our cramped confinement chiefly through our daydreams. Wouldn't it be a lovelier and more livable world if those daydreams came true more often?

For example, to name a few daydreams, wouldn't it make for a livelier 1973 if—

Phyllis Diller's former husband Fang were allowed to tell in public his side of the story of his life with her?

Anytime any employe had a birthday, the boss would put gin in the water cooler?

Muhammad Ali became a sheik in Araby?

The proverb "All that goes up must come down" could be applied to taxes?

A fire plug was invented that would do to a dog the same thing the dog did to it? Can't you imagine the dog's expression?

People enjoyed themselves in church half as much as they act like they do in night clubs?

Television would finally solve the problems of upset stomachs, bad breath and armpit odors in America and go on to higher matters?

Every girl suddenly had red hair and green eyes?

Everybody got what he wanted — and nobody got what he deserved?

We could live just one week in this world without the feeling we were walking through a slaughterhouse?

If- !!! But could we stand it, if all our daydreams came true?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
More on the Watergate 7

WASHINGTON — We can now shed more light on the backstage efforts to persuade the Watergate defendants to plead guilty and save the White House the embarrassment of a public trial.

On December 26, we reported that the Justice Department had discreetly sounded out some of the defendants about entering guilty pleas. The prosecutors were cautious in their conversations with defense lawyers. But more direct messages were relayed through E. Howard Hunt, the former White House aide and CIA veteran.

At first, the defendants held out for a softening of the charges. The five who were caught inside Democratic headquarters, for example, wanted the break-in charged reduced to illegal entry. This would have made their offense a simple misdemeanor.

Any cutting back of the charges, however, would have looked like a fix. So instead, the mystery men behind the scenes used pressure and persuasion. They also alternately stopped and resumed the cash payments that had been promised to the defendants.

In return, the defendants hinted they might make some embarrassing revelations if they were abandoned. Some indicated they might write books about their experiences, telling all.

Hunt agreed to plead guilty, apparently with a tacit understanding that he wouldn't have to spend too long in jail. He urged the other defendants privately to follow his example.

CIA VISITORS

Some of the defendants, who had been involved with Hunt in the Bay of Pigs operation, also received private visits from some of their former CIA comrades. The visitors brought expense money and also offered to make regular payments to the defendants' families. A $1,000- a - month figure was mentioned.

Our sources could not, or would not, identify the men behind the scenes. We can report only that most of the money for the defendants was funneled through Hunt. He delivered part of the cash to Bernard Barker, who distributed it to the men he had recruited for the Watergate misadventure. Hunt's wife was carrying $10,000 in cash when she was killed in a Chicago airliner crash.

Footnote: At the outset of the trial, the prosecutors made a remarkable agreement not to introduce the most damning evidence the FBI had dug up. This was a detailed diary that one of the defendants, Eugenio Martinez, had kept. As a minor functionary for the CIA, he was required by the CIA to keep a record of his activities. Those who have had access to the diary, however, tell us Martinez, in true CIA fashion, used code names to identify all his contacts and associates. Nevertheless, the diary provides an excellent record of the espionage operation at the Watergate.

PENTAGON PIPELINE
PENTAGON CENSORSHIP

— The Pentagon has acknowledged that orders went out on December 30 to all personnel, civilian and military alike, to keep their mouths shut about military activities and peace prospects in Southeast Asia. Not reported, however, was the sweeping nature of the order. American pilots flying combat missions over North Vietnam, for example, were specifically prohibited from talking to newsmen. A special directive stipulates: "The no comment guidance specifically precludes interviews at all levels and with air crews in particular." Even the Coast Guard, though it doesn't come under Pentagon jurisdiction, submitted to the censorship order. Admiral Chester Bender, the Coast Guard Commandant, ordered all his people to report press queries not to their superiors in the Transportation Department but to the Defense Department.

ZUMWALT'S ELEPHANTS

— Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, the Navy chief, recently ordered two ceramic elephants delivered to him from South Vietnam. The tiny pachyderms were shipped free of charge by Pan Am. This happens to be patently illegal. When we asked the admiral's office about this, they told us he would pay the shipping charge. The cost of shipping, we have learned, is more than Zumwalt paid for the elephant icons.

ARMY ORIGINALITY

— To boost morale, the Army Materiel Command recently held a contest to name its new national headquarters. More than 524 names were suggested, and the AMC's official Contest Committee to Name the New Building solemly studied the offerings. At last, Maj. Gen. Charles T. Horner, the AMC chief of staff, announced with pride: "The name of the new AMC building is the AMC BUILDING." The lucky winners, Francis Sikorski, received $100 in appropriated monies for his shrewd suggestion.

J.A. Andres' Meat Market on Prosperity street, caught fire Sunday and was badly damaged. The origin of the fire is unknown, although it is supposed that it was caused by an electric light wire in the rear room of the shop. This is the third time that butcher shops operated by J.A. Andres in Sikeston have been lost by fire. In 1919, the Andres' Meat Market, which was then located at the southwest corner of Kingshighway and Front streets, was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The firm went into business again in a building just east of the Malone Theatre, at the intersection of Malone avenue and New Madrid street. Only a little more than a year had passed when another mysterious fire destroyed the meat market. Mr. Andres intends to reopen his place within the next few days.

Out of four basketball games played by Sikeston teams the past week, three of them were won and one was lost. The boys' team won from the Cairo high school team last Thursday night on the Mecca Hall court and lost the next night to the Central High School team at Cape Girardeau. Thursday night Bridges Consolidated School was defeated by the girls here. On the next night, Friday, the locals won again from the New Madrid girls' team at New Madrid.

Letters to the Editor

I do not think that I will be contributing to the Bach Mai Hospital Fund. While serving in South Vietnam, North Vietnamese forces blew up our hospital in Tay Ninh Base Camp. I did not see any North Vietnamese government officials or private citizens raising funds to rebuild this hospital.

It irks me to see antiwar groups critical of so- called U. S. atrocities in Indochina. They seem to forget those atrocities committed by the Communist.

The case of the tackled damsel

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

With the first hint of all, Herman eagerly grabbed his football and hustled his neighbor, Mr. Fatso, out into the street where they began to pass the pigskin back and forth. And while they no doubt viewed themselves as All-Americans as they passed and caught the ball, they were actually old Americans, except in spirit.

And it was in this spirit that Herman heaved a long pass to his enthusiastic and potbellied neighbor who chased it down the street with open arms as if he was Al Jolson singing "Mammy!"

Unfortunately, in watching the ball instead of where he was running, the ungamely Mr. Fatso crashed into the comely Miss Smith, who happened to be crossing the street at the time. Thrown for a loss, the irate Miss Smith sued "All-American" Herman for her injuries.

"I'm not responsible," protested Herman in court. "Fatso ran into her, not me."

"But he's the one who threw the pass," was Miss Smith's answer. "And he was careless in throwing it in my direction. While I may have had passes thrown in my direction before, they never had anything to do with wootball."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make "All-American" Herman pay Miss Smith for her injuries?

This is how the jduge ruled: NO! The judge held that throwing a football is not, in and of itself, a negligent act. While Herman may have thrown the football in the vicinity of Miss Smith, noted the judge, he had no control over Mr. Fatso and, logically, he had no reason to expect him to run into and collide with Miss Smith. Mr. Fatso, concluded the judge, was master of his own course and not Herman.

Cobb- Bishop

EAST PRAIRIE — A candlelight ceremony at First Church of God was the setting for the wedding of Miss Debbie Bishop and Rick Cobb. The Rev. Bill Piatt officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 30.

Miss Bishop is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bishop, and Cobb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cobb.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. James Scott, organist, played nuptial music and then accompanied Mark Hurt, cousin of the bride, as he sang, "Always", "The Wedding Prayer" and "One Hand, One Heart", as the couple knelt.

Joyce Davis and Janie Gogue lighted the tapers in two arch and one spiral candelabras which were entwined with greenery. The choir railing was also draped with greenery.

The ceremony of the candles was performed signifying the union of the bride and groom, using a large Christ candle for the center candle.

Miss Susan Bishop served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Valaree Cobb, sister of the groom, Jean Savell and Sandra and Carol Arington. Junior bridesmaid was Tammy Jackson of Horn Lake, Miss. cousin of the bride.

Miss Bishop wore a formal gown of cognac crepe-back satin with an overgown of a darker shade of chiffon. The bodice featured a scooped neckline and bouffant sleeves. A floral band and bow in shades of green and gold encircled the waist and matched the hair ribbon. The billowy skirt was enhanced with a deep ruffle of chiffon.

Attendants wore identical gowns of different shades. Miss Davis and Miss Hogue wore gowns of gold with dark chiffon overlay; the others wore camel with darker chiffon. All carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose. Miss Kim Sater, cousin of the groom, was the flowergirl. She wore a dress of camel, crepe-back satin, styled with an overgown of chiffon with billowy sleeves and a straight skirt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal Bridal Originals gown of acetate peau with Venice lace motifs which accented the Basque bodice, sleeves and sweep of the chapel train. Tiny, covered buttons traced a line from the v-neckline to the waist, along the sleeves at the wrist and down the back of the gown. Bows of acetate peau accented the back waistline and were attached at vantage points down each side of the gown. Her elbow-length veil of illusion cascaded from a headpiece fashioned of a satin bow, Venice lace and seed pearls.

She carried a nosegay of yellow and white rosebuds and bridal wreath. Her wedding slippers of white lace and leather were those worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The groom chose his father as best man. Groomsmen were Stanley Smith, David Hale, Bob Hancr and Tony Parker. Junior groomsman was Charles "Chuck" Morgan, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Robert Abernathy and Avery Hutcheson.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Cobb received their guests in the youth chapel of the church. The bridal table was covered with a crepe-back satin cloth of camel hue, and centered with a two-branch silver candelabra and floral arrangement of yellow baby mums and greenery. The three-tiered cake was topped with a Christogram, the symbol of marriage in Christ.

Miss Lisa Morgan, cousin of the bride, attended the guest register and Miss Shelia Thresher, another cousin of the bride, handed wedding programs and rice bags to the wedding guests.

Mrs. Cobb attended Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau last semester and plans to resume her studies at Anderson next fall.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full, floor-length dress of lace-covered satin fashioned with a square neck-line and long sleeves of Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of white and peppermint carnations adorned with lace netting and small, white satin ribbons. The veil was a chapel cap of beaded lace attached to white tulle.

Mrs. Pauline Hicks sat in honor of the bride's mother who could not be present due to illness. She wore a lavender dress with a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a floor-length dress of brocade and scarlet double knit. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Miss Donna Mulcahy, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Becky Davis, sister of the bride. Flower girl was Miss Stephanie Hurley, niece of the groom. The attendants wore floor-length gowns of scarlet. velvet fashioned in the Victorian style. They wore as headpieces small pillbox hats of white fur. Each carried a red, long-stem rose.

John Vines, friend of the couple, served as best man. Groomsman was Jim Byrd, who also served as an usher along with Donald Davis, brother of the bride. Junior groomsman was Clay Winans. The men in the wedding wore black tuxedoes with white, ruffled shirts.

The guest book was attended by Miss Myra Byrd who also distributed service programs and rice bags.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a bride and groom under a chapel dome. Servers were Mrs. Don Davis, Mrs. Ronnie Hurley, Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. Howard Reed.

The bride is employed by Missouri Delta Community Hospital, and the groom is employed by Malone & Hyde Inc. He is also a student at Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau.

The couple will live at 701 Helen St.

A miscellaneous shower was given in honor of the bride-elect on Nov. 30 at the Security Federal Bank community room. Hostesses were Mrs. Johnny McVey, Mrs. Marshall Hicks, Mrs. Frances Wallace, Mrs. Norma Bennett and Mrs. Wileen Bryant. Mrs. Robert Taylor and Miss Donna Mulcahy assisted with opening gifts.

Sexless couple too much for Ann

Dear Ann Landers: Our hearts go out to those sex-starved wives who write to Ann Landers and complain about cold, indifferent, clumsy and sloppy husbands who are lousy lovers. My husband and I solved the problem 40 years ago, after five years of marriage. We dicided not to have any sex. Sex is nothing more than a habit that causes children, disease, mental illness, divorce, crime and murder. Every rotten thing in this world can be traced to sex. It is also a lot of trouble and rarely worth it.

Don't tell me sex is natural. Many things in nature are repulsive, such as a cat eating a bird, etc.

I hope you will print this letter so the women in your reading audience who have sexless marriages will realize that they are actually blessed.--- J. and J., Winter Park, Florida

Dear J. and J.: How marvelous that you two kooks found each other. It would have been unfortunate if either of you had married a well-adjusted, normal person. A couple who equates children with disease, mental illness and murder is too much for me to deal with in this space. But thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: If you publish this letter it could save someone from a serious accident, or even death.

A young woman I know was driving her new car. She had her baby with her. The gas pedal stuck, she became panicky and put the car in reverse. The car spun around and crashed into a house. Fortunately, no one was at home. The baby was not hurt but the young woman was painfully injured and she is lucky to be alive.

Here's how to avoid tragedy if your gas pedal sticks! Turn off the ignition and apply the brakes. The engine will stop.--- N. Name, Please

Dear N.N.: Thanks for your letter. I will repeat the key line for the benefit of speed readers. If the gas pedal sticks-- don't panic. Simply turn off the ignition and apply the brakes.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the bride who had spent a fortune on a satin and lace wedding gown and was bemoaning the fact that she had invested so much money in a dress she could wear only once. Her question was, "Would it be all right to have the gown shortened, tinted another color and use it as a cocktail dress? You told her no-- that it would probably look like a made-over wedding gown. Well, Ann, I have a better idea.

Twenty-two years ago I, too, spent a fortune on a wedding gown, but I got my money's worth out of it. I've worn it 21 times since I was married in it -- as an anniversary gown and it still looks beautiful! What a lovely way to renew a marriage. It's like being a bride again! Give them the word, will you? It's a great idea.--- Eternal Bride.

Dear Eternal: I agree, it's a great idea-- but 95 per cent of the women out there who have been married over 20 years could no more get into their wedding gowns that they could walk across Lake Michigan. To those who can-- my heartiest congratulations. To those who can't, save the gown for your daughter.

P.S. A word to you needle-artist husbands: Before you hand this column to the wife and ask her if she could get into her wedding gown, go try to get into your wedding pants.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35c in coin to this newspaper.

Dolphins...super champs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Welcome to the Super Bowl Fish Fry," said the bedsheet banner in the massive Memorial Coliseum. However, it was the Washington Redskins who got neatly sauteed by pro football's unbeatable underdogs, the Miami Dolphins.

"Washington's Championship Menu: Filet of Dolphin," said another homemade paean to Coach George Allen's OverTheHill Gang. However, it was Miami quarterback Bob Griese who feasted on the tasty gaps in the Redskins' defense.

It was bullish Larry Csonka who gobbled up the Coliseum turf. It was Manny Fernandez who chewed up the Washington ground game. It was Jake Scott who speared the Redskin aerial attack like a hungry interloper amid trays of hors d'ouvres.

And when the banquet was over on Sunday, the Miami Dolphins, with a victory in Super Bowl VII far more convincing than the final 14-7 score, had become the National Football League's first team to munch their way through an entire season without so much as a tie to blemish their record.

With the American Conference's top offense and equally supreme defense, they had barreled through the year with a 14-0 record. Then, in a pair of come-from-behind efforts, they'd nudged past Cleveland 20-14 and Pittsburgh 21-17 for the AFC title.

And finally, as underdogs of anywhere from one to three points, they marched into Super Bowl VII, silently determined to shove into the background their 24-3 humiliation at the hands of the Dallas Cowboys in the championship game of a year ago.

They didn't just push it into the background. They obliterated it.

"I don't know what I'm gonna tell these guys in training camp," Coach Don Shula said in the jubilant Miami locker room, "except maybe, 'we gotta win the College All-Star Game.'

"There was always the empty feeling of not having accomplished the ultimate," said Shula, who twice had taken teams into the Super Bowl and twice had come away a loser. "This is the ultimate."

The scoring statistics are simple. A 28-year Griese-to-Howard Twilley touchdown pass with one second to go in the first quarter and a one-yard Jim Kiick plunged with 18 to go in the second. But that hardly tells much of a story.

Washington's scoring is a bit more complicated—and it tells an important story. It was the defense, helped by a frenzy of confusion, that got the points. Garo Yepremian's 42-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Bill Brundige and, when the Cypriot place-kicker recovered the ball and tried to pass it, he lost the handle.

Cornerback Mike Bass snatched it in mid-air and galloped 49 yards down the left sideline for the touchdown which, with 2:07 to play, averted the ultimate ignominy for Washington.

Suddenly, the record championship crowd of 90,182 fans— and the estimated 75 million television viewers, including those in unblacked-out Los Angeles—had themselves a close game. They waited for the onside kick. But it never came.

"There was too much time left," Allen said. "You just try to kick deep, hold them and maybe block the punt." But they didn't hold them until barely a minute remained. They didn't block the punt, a 40-yarder by Larry Seiple that dumped the Redskins back on their own 30-yard line.

Then, after three incomplete passes by Billy Kilmer and a final crushing quarterback sack that left him staring helplessly at the smog-laden California sky, the Dolphins, for their 90 minutes of work, were each $15,000 richer—closer to $25,000 if you include the AFC playoff shares.

Griese, who played it protectively cozy in the second half, finishing the game with eight completions on 11 passes for 88 yards, was dynamite in the first half of his first start since the fifth game of the season, when leg and ankle injuries brought Earl Morrall in as the signal-caller.

In the first two periods he went 6-for-6 for 75 yards. And he would have been 8-for-8 for 142 yards had not a 20-yarder to Marv Fleming and a 47-yard scoring bomb to Paul Warfield been wiped out by penalties.

There was still plenty of time as the second half began and Kilmer, who finished with completions on half of his 28 passes for 104 yards, didn't seem about to waste it.

Four successive completions—11 yards to Jerry Smith, 15 to Charley Taylor, then 15 and seven to Roy Jefferson, and the 'Skins were on the Miami 17.

But as suddenly as Kilmer had found his arm, he lost it— and he lost eight yards when Fernandez blew in to dump him. So it was up to Curt Knight to put Washington on the scoreboard.

He didn't. The place-kicker who had booted seven straight field goals in the NFC Playoffs against Green Bay and Dallas missed from 32 yards out.

"I simply did not throw that well today," said Kilmer, looking forward glumly to his role next Sunday in Dallas as quarterback of the NFC All-Star team in the Pro Bowl. "I think if I had thrown well we would have beaten them ... that game next week doesn't mean a thing any more. Not without this one.

"We figured we had to run against Miami but their overall defense is so good that we couldn't get anything started." Larry Brown, who had led NFC rushers with 1,216 yards, managed 72 of Washington's 141 ground yards against the Dolphins, and he needed 22 carries to do it.

Csonka, meanwhile, brushed aside Redskin tacklers all day, piling up 112 yards. Forty-nine of them came in one explosion charge through half the Redskins on the field with five minutes to go in the third quarter.

Allen said there were plenty of things to be upset about. One of them was an apparent fumbled snap by Miami center Howard Kindig in the opening minutes, one which Redskins' linebacker Harold McLinton slapped loose, then recovered on the Dolphins' 25-yard line.

The officials nailed McLinton for illegal procedure. It gave Miami a second chance to punt and this one was good, a 50-yard boomer by Seiple.

And there was a fumbled punt by Scott later in the first period. The Redskins might have had the ball on the Dolphins' 37—but Dick Anderson recovered for Miami.

"That was the biggest play of the first half," Allen said. "If we'd gotten that ball—and I feel we would have scored—we could have gone ahead and it would have been a different ball game."

One thing was different. President Nixon, who had avidly supported Miami a year ago in its Super Bowl loss, switched his allegiance this year to the Redskins and saw his heroes go down to defeat from the Florida White House in Key Biscayne.

Raiders claim title

POPLAR BLUFF — Spewing, sputtering and then unleashing a devastating attack, the Three Rivers Community College Raiders rushed to the championship of the Classic of Champions tournament Saturday night, dropping Lake Land College of Mattoon, Ill., 88-65 in the title bout.

Coach Gene Bess' Raiders jumped out to a 20-8 lead through the first six minutes of action, but failed to hold off the high-powered Lake Land offense and fell behind 45-44 at half.

"We just couldn't stand prosperity," Bess emphasized as he reviewed the game and referred to his team's good start. "But we held our composure."

Three Rivers stormed back in the second half, tightening its defense and choking off the Lake Land offense to just 23 points in the final 20 minutes of play.

"There isn't any way they (Three Rivers) are 23 points better than us," controversial Lake Land Coach Howard Garrett commented. "We are a 15-point better club than they are and we'd prove it on a neutral floor," Garrett said.

Garrett was tagged with a technical foul and had one of his players ejected for striking a Three Rivers athlete.

"It (the player ejection) would never have happened if the officials had controlled the game better ... they let it get out of hand," Garrett pointed out.

Wendall Copeland, a sophomore from Van Buren, came off the bench to provide the offensive spark that produced 44 Three Rivers points in the second half. The reserve forward ended the game with 16 points and trailed TRCC freshmen Mike Edwards of Columbus, Ga., by three points for game honors.

Ron Johnson, another reserve to add a big plus and 13 points to the Raiders' second half surge, ended the game with 13 markers and seven rebounds. Mark Baker of New Madrid and Lennies McFerren of Howardville rounded out TRCC's double-figure scoring with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Jay Elliott, a 6- foot- 8 sophomore, scored 18 points for Lake Land's top offensive effort and was named the event's most valuable player after a 40-point showing in Friday's opening contest against Lindsey Wilson. The talented postman had 16 points in the first half Saturday and had accumulated six blocked shots and almost a dozen rebounds but got into foul trouble and sat out a lot of the second half.

Joining Elliott on the all-star squad were teammates Doug Griggs and Perry Hines and Three Rivers stars Dennis Sims, Mark Baker and Lennies McFerren, along with Larry Flemming of Lindsey Wilson and Pete Pullen of Jackson State.

The victory raised the Three Rivers record to 10-3 on the season while Lake Land's dropped to 10-5.

Missouri finds No. 13 unlucky

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The fifth-ranked Missouri Tigers, who found out for certain Saturday night that No. 13 is an unlucky number, will try to pick up the pieces tonight when Coach Norm Stewart sends his forces against the Colorado Buffaloes at Columbia, Mo., in a Big Eight Conference basketball game.

The Tigers, who had won 12 in a row, went down to defeat at the hands of defending champion Kansas State 70-55. If pressure had anything to do with the licking, it's off now.

Stewart denies that pressure was a factor.

Of the possible element, Stewart said:

"Each game is such a challenge that you can't worry about it. Anyway, we won't have to worry about it now, will we?"

The Tigers will be playing a Colorado team tonight that also lost Saturday night. The Buffs were whipped by Kansas 67-58. Both teams are 0-1 in league play.

Iowa State maintained its grip on first place in the standings by scoring a pulsating televised 94-91 triumph over Oklahoma, and Oklahoma State tripped Nebrsska 68-55.

In beating the Tigers, the Wildcats, 17th ranked and 1-0 in the conference, manhandled John Brown, who twice was involved in flareups with Kansas State's Larry Williams. Brown was checked on 14 points, far below his 22-point average.

The Wildcats' star guard, Lon Kruger, missed the action because of an injured ankle. Bob Chipman replaced him and made 17 points. Williams sank 20.

Wildcat Coach Jack Hartman admitted he made adjustments in the team's zone for the game but wouldn't say whether the change was designed to stop Brown.

A 17-point bombardment by reserve guard Eric Heft was responsible for Iowa State's victory over the Sooners, whose freshman ace, Alvan Adams, hit a career high of 38 points and pulled down 17 rebounds. Heft, wh got 20 points, settled the issue with a drive-in basket with one minute, 25 seconds remaining and two free throws with three seconds left. Iowa State is 2-0.

A poor 39 per cent shooting average from the floor was good enough for Oklahoma State to conquer the Cornhuskers. The victory evened the Cowboys' conference record at 1-1. Andy Hopson, with 18 points and 20 rebounds, topped State. Freshman Jerrell Fort and Kent Reckeway each canned 12 points for Nebraska.

Kansas, 1-0, ended a fivegame losing streak against the Buffs, losers of seven of their last eight outings. Rick Suttle bucketed 18 points for the victorious Jayhawks, who haven't lost a conference game at home since 1969. Scott Wedman's 16 points were high for Colorado.

The rest of this week's schedule:

Saturday—Kansas State at Oklahoma, afternoon; Kansas at Missouri; Iowa State at Oklahoma State.

SHS Matmen busy

Coach John Heacox's Sikeston Bulldog mat squad of three freshmen and nine sophomores captured the third place trophy Saturday in the seven- team Sikeston invitational freshman-sophomore wrestling tourney in the SHS fieldhouse.

Sikeston drew six first round byes— more than any other team in the tournament — which hurt the team point total because no team points were awarded for byes. The Bulldogs finished 15 points behind the first place Ste. Genevieve Dragons and only one point behind the second- place Jackson Indians.

Steve Nowell, wrestling in the 98- pound division, was one of Sikeston's nine medalists. After a bye in the first round, Nowell followed with successive pins over Bequett of Ste. Genevieve and Gibbs of Jackson to win his second tourney title of season.

Tom Bridger, a 105-pounder, won three matches over Sago of Flat River, Wright of Jackson and Warner of Ste. Genevieve to bring his record to 11-0 for the season and also his second tourney win.

The other undefeated Bulldog wrestler, 112- pound Scott Hutchison, pinned Denson of Dexter and Robinson of Charleston and went on to beat Jaco of Jackson by a 10-1 decision in the championship round. Hutchison also has two tournament wins to his credit.

Mike Crabb, a 126-pounder, captured third place in his division by winning two of three matches after drawing a first round bye. Crabb beat Hahs of Jackson in the consolation round after pinning Ward of Charleston in the quarterfinals.

In the 138- pound division, John Ralph of SHS drew a first- round bye and lost a close 6-4 decision to Drury of Ste. Genevieve, who went on to win his division. Ralph came back to pin Thurman of Cape in the loser's bracket to ice a third place medal.

Sikeston's Tom DeRoush beat Kiersey of Dexter 8-2 and pinned Webb of Cape before losing the championship match to Amos of Jackson.

Ron Blankenship and Rhett Moore were medalists for Sikeston as they placed third in the 167-pound and heavyweight divisions respectively. Blankenship lost to Wren, who went on to win the division, and beat Williamson 5-1 in the consolation match for third place.

The three Bulldog nonmedalists, Mark Hesselrode in the 132- pound division, Bill Paxton in the 145- pound division and David Overby in the 185-pound division, all went to consolation bouts in their weight classes before losing bids for third place medals.

How the schools finished:

	team points
Ste. Genevievve	105
Jackson	90.5
Sikeston	89.5
Cape	75
Dexter	29.5
Flat River	21
Charleston	12

Coach Heacox takes his wrestling crew on the road this week to take on the Dexter Bearcats tonight, the Ste. Genevieve Dragons Thursday night and Fox High School of Arnold Saturday afternoon. The first two matches begin at 6:30 p.m. and the latter is a 2 p.m. match.

The SHS matmen will undoubtedly have their hands full with the three well- regarded grappling foes.

A much shorter version of the same bill is expected to be introduced in the House Tuesday.

The House will hold a technical session today at 4 p.m. Majority Floor Leader Kenneth J. Rothman, D-Clayton, told members last week their presence was not mandatory at today's session.

The Senate will convene at 11 a.m. Tuesday with the House holding a roll call session at 4 p.m.

Senate committee appointments are expected to be announced this week by Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, president pro tem. House committee appointments were announced last week.

Income tax booklets are at post offices

A booklet that gives information on how to fill out federal income tax forms is now on sale at first, second and third class post offices in the Sikeston sectional area, Postmaster Donald Pasaka announced today.

"Your Federal Income Tax" was written by the Internal Revenue Service and contains many examples to illustrate how the tax laws apply to actual situations. A special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled- in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages where explanantions can be found for each entry on the return.

Another popular IRS publication, "Tax Guide for Small Business", will also be sold at first class offices.

This booklet answers many questions businessmen have about federal income, excise and employment taxes. It also contains a 1973 tax calendar with due dates for various tax payments.

Motor carriers forfeit $100

JEFFERSON CITY-- Two motor carriers and a shipper in Southeast Missouri have forfeited $100 apiece in lieu of penalty actions for the transportation or rock at rates lower than those set by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

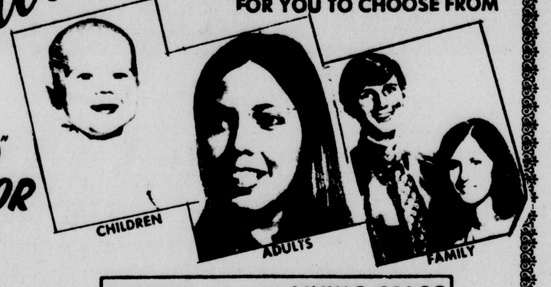

In a stipulation submitted to the commission, the shipper, Southeast Missouri Stone Company, stated that it had shipped crushed rock from Cape Girardeau to a stockpile on Interstate 55 near Portageville for $1.80 per ton from Nov. 6, 1968 to Feb. 28, 1969.

The company later was sued by several carriers and a settlement was made in April 1970.

The PSC general counsel said in the stipulation that because the conditions under which the hauling took place were not likely to reoccur, and in consideration of the action against the company by the carriers, the forfeiture would be accepted in lieu of taking court action.

The carriers, William White of Marston and William H. Nelson, now living in Florida, also agreed to a forfeiture. The money will be placed in the school fund of Missouri.

Lady, when you retire, what then?

When you retire, will you really be able to travel and enjoy life the way you've always dreamed? Will Social Security and that company pension be enough?

I can show you how a Metropolitan retirement plan can put an extra check in your mailbox every month when you stop working. It can mean all the difference between "getting by" and getting a kick out of your retirement years.

U.S. halts military operation in North

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United States suspended all offensive military operations in North Vietnam today amid increasing speculation that the secret peace talks with the North Vietnamese may have resulted in an agreement on a cease-fire.

President Nixon ordered the halt effective at 10 a.m. EST "because of the progress made" in the Paris peace talks, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced in Key Biscayne, where Nixon is staying.

Ziegler called the action "a unilateral gesture" and refused to comment on reports that Henry A. Kissinger, the President's negotiator in the secret talks, may have reached an agreement with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

Ziegler said Kissinger, who conferred extensively with Nixon Sunday after his return from Paris, had met with Nixon again this morning and would be going back to Paris "at some point in the relatively near future."

Nixon acted as reports in Saigon suggested that compromises have been reached on the issues that have been blocking a settlement. There was speculation that a full ceasefire might even be declared sometime this week.

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., who has been President Nixon's intermediary with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, was en route to Saigon and expected to arrive early Tuesday.

South Vietnamese sources said Haig was carrying the revised draft of a peace agreement. Sources also indicated that the outlines of the agreement already have been conveyed to Thieu by Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam.

Thieu, meanwhile, met with his National Security Council, his closest group of senior aides. Official sources said the meeting lasted eight hours, the longest the council has ever held.

An estimate that a cease-fire might occur "as early as this week" was reported by a CBS television correspondent in Saigon, Richard Wagner, who said it was obtained from "highly reliable palace sources in Saigon."

Well-informed sources in Saigon told The Associated Press that there was a possibility of a compromise by Thieu on his demand that any agreement specifically provide for the total withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam.

The sources said the compromise would involve a "tacit understanding" on withdrawal in the peace treaty itself, with provisions spelling it out placed in an accompanying technical protocol.

CBS' Wagner said his sources reported "tacit recognition" by Hanoi of the Saigon government, acceptance by Hanoi of a "temporary military and political demarcation line in Vietnam at the 17th Parallel, and agreement on a larger control commission to supervise a cease-fire.

Four more plead guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four more of the Watergate political espionage defendants pleaded guilty today, leaving only two of the original seven defendants at trial.

The guilty plea was entered by a new court-appointed attorney of Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez, Frank A. Surgis and Virgilio R. Gonzalez, all from the Miami area.

The plea brought to five the number of defendants who have withdrawn from the trial since it opened a week ago. Last Wednesday, former White House consultant E. Howard Hurt pleaded guilty to all charges.

The exit of four more defendants, leaving only two at the once-crowded defense table, raised serious questions as to whether the trial could continue.

Gerald Alch, attorney for one of the remaining defendants, James W. McCord Jr., said before court opened that he would seek a mistrial if the guilty pleas were offered, claiming the jury would conclude, even though it wouldn't be told, that the others had admitted guilt. The other remaining defendant is G. Gordon Liddy.

The new guilty pleas were offered by court-appointed attorney Al Newmeyer, in lieu of New York lawyer Henry B. Rothblatt, who had represented the four through the first week of trial but had refused to have them plead guilty.

Like Hunt, the four were required to plead guilty to all of the counts against them.

All four were charged with seven counts of an eight-count indictment and face maximum possible prison sentences of 55 years each. All four have CIA backgrounds dating from the Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion.

Sources close to the defense had said earlier that the Miami four had been under intense pressure to plead guilty and avoid a full airing of the charges against them, stemming from the burglary of Democratic party headquarters here last summer. The withdrawal of five of the seven defendants makes it unlikely that the full evidence in the case will be made public, at least in this trial.

Before the guilty pleas were announced, U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica revealed that the Miamians had written a letter last Friday firing Rothblatt as their lawyer because of his refusal to change their pleas to guilty. At their request, Sirica appointed Newmeyer for the purpose of presenting new pleas.

18 injured in area accidents

Eight area traffic accidents over the weekend resulted in injuries to 18 persons, according to the highway patrol.

Clarence Lane Jr., 22, of Hayti received head cuts at 5:30 p.m. Saturday on Route B one- half mile north of Pascola when he ran into the rear of a bobtruck parked on the pavement. The truck was owned by Arthur Stanley, 53, of Pascola.

Lane was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

An accident at 6:15 p.m. Saturday at the junction of Highways 60 and 114 caused injuries to four persons.

Injured were George Webber, 34, of Dexter, possible chest injuries; Jack Wilson, 25, of Sikeston, cuts to his ear; Joann Webber, 34, possible neck and chest injury; and Kim Webber, 12, minor cuts. They were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

The accident occurred when William Cannon, 58, of Sikeston was blinded by a parked car. His car crossed the center line and struck a car driven by George Webber head-on.

Roy Mann, 25, of Piedmont received serious head and neck injuries at 10 p.m. Saturday four miles east of Piedmont on Highway 34 when his car ran off the road, and struck a bridge, tearing up about 24 feet of bridge railing.

The accident occurred when the Elkins car was attempting to make a left turn as the Breeden auto attempted to pass.

At 5:30 p.m. Sunday on Highway 72 eight miles east of Ironton, a car driven by Robert Inman, 18, of Ironton, ran off the right side of the road, came back across, struck an embankment and overturned.

Injured in the accident were Inman, who received head cuts and bruises on his left knee and Rennee Sansocie, 16, of Marquand, who suffered multiple cuts to her head, scalp and face. Both were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Ironton.

Cathy Daniels, 24, of Sikeston received a broken arm and head and elbow cuts at 7:3 a.m. today on Highway 60, one- tenth of a mile west of Sikeston when her car slid sideways on ice and struck an auto driven by James Priest, 26, of Poplar Bluff.

Two arrested for disorderly conduct

Robert Horton, 106 E. Center, was arrested early Saturday morning after he allegedly threatened an East Prairie man and tried to run him off the road.

Jimmy Manning of East Prairie told police he had stopped at A & B Oil Company when Horton came up and threatened to beat him. Manning said he left the station and Horton followed and tried to run him off the road with his truck.

Horton was brought to the police station at 1:30 a.m. and had to be forcibly detained at the booking room. Horton reportedly told police he was going back to Chicago and get his friends to come and burn Sikeston to the ground.

Police finally booked Horton on charges of careless and imprudent driving, disorderly conduct and two counts of disturbing the peace.

Horton's companion, Robert Allan Palmer of Memphis, Tenn., was also arrested for peace disturbance and disorderly conduct.

Horton was turned over to New Madrid County authorities on common assault charges. Horton is believed to be the man who beat a service station attendant at the intersection of Interstate 55 and Route Y near Kewanee.

Horton and Palmer are alleged to have used loud and profane language at the station in the presence of women. Brown asked the men to leave, and when they refused, an altercation occurred, according to New Madrid authorities.

Palmer was still in the Sikeston jail this morning.

William Franklin Evans, 520 E. Center was arrested for driving while intoxicated Saturday after his car struck an automobile driven by Herschel Michael Ellis, 906 Davis.

Ellis, who police say failed to stop at a stop sign, was charged with careless and imprudent driving.

Police said Ellis failed to stop at the Corner of North Prairie and East Center about 4:30 p.m.

Three persons, Harold Ray Smith, 520 E. Center; Linton Jacobs, 927 Lake; and Dona MacLaughlin, 906 Davis, were treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital for minor injuries.

Police said Evans turned onto Center from Moore Avenue about 10:30 a.m., pulled into the wrong lane of traffic and narrowly missed a head- on collision with a police car.

Other arrests announced today include:

James Louie Barber, 502 W. Gladys, driving while license revoked; Willie Robinson, Route Three, speeding;

Willie Cage Jr. of Chicago, fraudulent use of a stolen credit card; and Charles Junior White of Advance Route One, failure to yield for an emergency vehicle.

Chronic alcoholism believed cause of Russelburg's death

Thomas Russelburg, 33, of 833 Lake Street, was pronounced dead at 12:50 p.m. Saturday in front of his home by Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee.

Nunnelee said the cause of death appeared to be chronic alcoholism. An autopsy was performed Sunday in Morganfield, Ky., at the request of the family, Nunnelee said, but the results have not been received.

Nunnelee said there were no marks on the body to indicate foul play.

Russelburg had reportedly been drinking heavily before his death. According to police reports, he and several other persons had been at a friend's home in Morehouse where he drank a fifth of whisky and some beer.

Saturday morning one of those at the party, Lynn Casey of 842 Linn St., put Russelburg in the back seat of his car and drove him home. Casey said he thought Russelburg had fallen asleep. It was only after he stopped the car at Russelburg's home and tried to awaken him that he discovered Russelburg was dead.

Nunnelee said Casey was not under any suspicion in the death.

Russelburg was born April 26, 1939 in Morganfield, Ky., and was a salesman for the Nestle Co.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Louise VanCleave, Mrs. Betty Ann Gipson, a sister, and his grandmother, Mrs. Mable Greenwell, all of Morganfield.

The body was removed from Nunnelee Funeral Home Sunday to Whitsell Funeral Home in Morganfield.

Funeral Mass will be conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Ann's Catholic Church with the pastor of the church officiating.

Burial will be in St. Agnes Cemetery in Uniontown, Ky.

Body found

NEW MADRID — The body of Joe Robbins, 18, of Bastrop, La., who had been missing since Dec. 21 when he reportedly had fallen off a twoboat in New Madrid, was found at 3:30 p.m. Sunday two miles south of Caruthersville at Chute 16 on the bank of the Mississippi River.

SOLUTION TO
ATOMIC WASTE?

Not the least of thyproblems associated with atomic energy, which we once thought would solve mankind's energy needs for all time, is how to dispose of highly dangerous atomic waste.

The method currently used today is the deep underground burial of radioactive by-products ranging from depleted uranium cores to contaminated gloves. But the radioactivity may take hundreds or thousands of years to decompose to safe levels, and critics worry about what would happen if a burial site were fractured by an earthquake.

A German engineer has come up with a bold idea — firing the wastes into the great big nuclear furnace we call the sun.

It would be costly, he admits, but so is burial. The beauty part is that the radioactivity of the wastes could be utilized, under the right circumstances, to power the rockets that carry them.

LOOK WHAT'S
ERODING RACISM

Building trades unionists in South Africa are urging the government to lift its restrictions against black workers in favor of equal pay for equal work.

Under present law, government tribunals can declare certain trades "for whites only." But they can also grant exemptions to meet shortages of white manpower.

While the union complaints are seen by some as a major blow against South Africa's policy of apartheid, or racial separation, the development is not basically the result of changed racial attitudes. Rather, it is an interesting consequence of the country's continuing economic boom and accompanying labor shortage.

The fact is, say unionists, that job reservation rules have been so eroded by government exemptions that they no longer protect white workers.

Already, points out a spokesman for the Amalgamated Union of Building Trade Workers, blacks are doing about 35 per cent of the jobs in the trade, but are paid only about 35 cents an hour compared with an average $1.95 an hour for whites.

"This situation is totally untenable and must be halted if the whites are not eventually going to be completely undermined," he says.

The situation should also give pause to those people in other countries, including stockholders in American firms with investments in South Africa, who advocate an economic blockade to force South Africa to abandon apartheid.

The evidence strongly suggests that prosperity is doing more to soften South Africa's rigid racism than any amount of protest or pressure might accomplish.

WHY WE OPPOSE
BRENNAN
CONFIRMATION

For several years, leading thinkers from both the right and left, and every political spectrum in between, have bewailed the deterioration of individual liberties in America. The government of the people, by the people, and for the people, they have complained has become a captive government of the few, by the few, and for the few.

If turning over the U. S. Department of Labor to union boss Peter J. Brennan is any indication, we are inclined to agree.

Brennan's appointment marks an end to the notion that the average wage-earner can expect a fair shake from his government. It could mark the beginning of a frightening new era in which the already excessive powers of top union officials may be expanded until possibly there is nothing left of individual freedom for the employee. We hope not.

Few other men we could think of, save George Meany and some of his cronies, could be less representative of the 80 million job holders of America, the majority of whom (62 million) have chosen not to affiliate with unions. Few other men could be more contemptuous of the right of these 62 million to continue to disassociate with organized labor if they please. The wishes, beliefs and needs of the majority of American working people are as strange to Peter J. Brennan as democracy to a tiger.

Champions of union privilege, of course, are ecstatic over the Brennan nomination. They envision a Secretary of Big Labor presiding over a national labor policy that increases the powers of union officials and further limits the individual freedom of the working man.

Over the past few years, union membership has actually declined as a percentage of the workforce. But with Peter Brennan as Secretary of Big Labor, union officials look to new "glory days" when millions of additional rank - and - file employees will be forced to kick into union coffers for the right to earn a living. As a matter of fact, professional union lobbyists already have begun gearing up for a major legislative campaign to force union membership on public employees and farm workers.

Two out of three Americans flatly reject the idea that employment should be based on anything but ability. They feel strongly that Americans should have the right to decide for themselves when and if they want to join a labor union. But Peter J. Brennan would deny them the right to make this choice.

That is why we oppose his confirmation.

We invite every American who is concerned with his own freedom and that of his fellow employees to join with us by writing his Senators and the White House. Top union officials must be denied this opportunity to further curtail individual liberties.

TREES FOR TOMORROW

Tree plantings by newly-weds was a custom that flourished in 18th century Europe. The trees served as a symbol of the couple's hopes that their marriages, too, would grow in health and happiness. Now newlyweds in Hamburg, West Germany, are reviving the custom for a practical, space- age reason: trees absorb hydrocarbons discharged by cars and factory chimneys and release life-giving oxygen.

In the united States, where Arbor Day originated in 1872, tree planting is becoming increasingly popular as Americans strive to protect their environment and beautify the land. This year the Arbor Day Foundation and Burlington Northern Railroad have joined to mark the centennial of Arbor Day during the month of April by planting trees in memory of the day's founder, J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska, a former Burlington official. The railroad is sponsoring ceremonial tree plantings in 27 cities from coast to coast to encourage thousands of individuals and families to do the same.

DEMONSTRATION
OF 'PEOPLE MOVERS'

Thousands of visitors to Transpo - 72, the United States International Transportation Exposition, Washington, D. C., were given a preview of the "people movers" of tomorrow.

Some companies exhibited scale models or real size models on static display, but the companies with actual "people movers," received maximum attention. People waited in line several hours to take demonstration rides.

Visiting dignitaries from both the United States and abroad as well as the general public showed real interest in the movers which were displayed by Bendix Corp., Rohr Industries, Ford Motor Co., and Otis Elevator Co.

According to Burt F. Raynes, chairman and chief executive, Rohr Industries has modern ground transportation systems which could be operating in cities across the country within a few years, helping to solve one of America's most critical urban problems.

Rohr exhibited advanced systems at Transpo, each designed to serve a different segment of a balanced transportation network. Some vehicles had steel wheels; others had rubber wheels or no wheels at all. One floats on air and another hangs in the air.

The Ford Motor Co., demonstrated a prototype transportation system that will speed passengers along an elevated guideway in electric cars, while the Bendix Dashaveyor personal rapid transit system featured two air-contained, electrically - powered vehicles along a 1,200 foot guideway. The Otis Elevator Co., showed a completely automated, electrically powered "Personal Rapid Transit."

AN ECONOMIC
PEARL HARBOR

For years, critics have scoffed at rail arguments made, or action taken, by rail spokesmen to relieve railroads of such things as money - losing passenger trains and archaic century - old regulation. Then came bankruptcy of the nation's largest rail system; and, coincidental with this event, issuance of one of the most significant studies of the railroads and transportation that has ever been made.

The report of this study, released by America's Sound Transportation Review Organization, is now public property. It tells the story of what the country, the transportation industry and the railroads can expect unless decisive action on a broad front is taken to put the Iron Horse back in good health. It is far from a pleasant story, and the General Counsel of the organization, former U. S. Senator George A. Smathers, presents it with stark clarity. He points out that the Report calls for such corrective measures as establishment of a federal transportation fund, a federally chartered rail corporation to be used as a means of rationalizing intercity rail passenger service and removal of "... anachronistic regulatory restraints ..."

Mrs. Smathers warns that the alternative to these corrective measures is nationalization of the rails at tremendous cost to the taxpayers. He advises railmen to, "Tell all of our citizens ... we're manning the bulwarks for our whole socio- economic system - - the system that has given more things to more people than any other system in all of history." It is no exaggeration to say that in the current problems of the railroads lie the seeds of an economic Pearl Harbor for the entire nation.

NOT THE ANSWER

The proposed Foreign Trade and Investment Act of 1972, better known as the Burke- Hartke bill, is being suggested as a quick "solution" to such complex problems as domestic unemployment, rising imports and declining exports. Far from solving these domestic problems, the approaches being suggested would only worsen them for everyone, particularly the average working American.

For example, although it's popular to talk about tax reform, the tax provisions of the Burke- Hartke bill would require U.S. firms to pay a double tax on their foreign earnings. Since foreign governments either do not tax the foreign earnings of their multinational companies at all, or do not tax them until they are remitted back to the home country, U.S. firms would be unable to compete internationally and would be forced to give up foreign markets to foreign firms. Since 40 per cent of all U.S. manufactured exports go to the foreign affiliates of U.S. firms abroad, hundreds of thousands of U.S. jobs would be lost, to say nothing of the increase in our balance of payments deficit or the deterioration in the international competitive postion of American industry which would occur.

Our economic problems won't be solved through politically expedient solutions which pit labor, management and government against one another. What is needed are positive, innovative policies which attack the root causes of our current economic problems. Proposals like the Burke- Hartke bill are part of the problem- not the answer.

END TAX— PAID
JUNKETS BY LAME DUCKS

A long overdue measure which would save the government, which means the good working taxpayers, a lot of wasted dollars is a bill to prevent defeated Senators and Congressmen from taking junkets around the nation and around the world. There is good reason for many fact-finding trips by lawmakers who are remaining in office, but the practice of taking trips at taxpayers' expense, especially to exotic places, has become somewhat discredited, hence the name "junket" which has been attached to such tours.

While there is good reason for returning Senators and Congressmen to "see for themselves" in a great many instances, there is no good reason for a defeated lawmaker to be touring at the taxpayers' expense.

In some cases, the lawmaker is a "lame duck" for more than six months and whatever he learns on his junkets will be of no value to the new Congress which convenes without him. It may be of great advantage to the lame duck either for personal pleasure or for making profitable contacts, but the taxpayers should not have to pay for that.

A Republican from Illinois, Congressman Robert Michel, is to file the bill, doing so because of an excess of such junkets this year. Some lawmen were defeated in primaries last spring or early summer and still re given virtual blank check by their colleagues for various junkets. This kind of conduct can only breed contempt for both those who do it and for those who permit it to be done, the leadership of both Houses. Good working people will want to support such measures to stop wasteful spending. HLH

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- While explaining Phase Three to some newsmen, assistant President George Shultz said it was voluntary but the government had "a stick" which it could "take out of the closet" to "clobber" those who aren't too voluntary about the mostly non- mandatory pay- price control guidelines. "Standards" he called them.

Point is: who will decide who is greedily failing the test of self- administered standards of pay and price increases? Who will decide who is to be clobbered by the government?

It will be Harvard's Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, a most unlikely title for Johnny Dunlop, the new pay- price czar whom Shultz considers "the most experienced in the country if not in the world."

So just a brief word about Prof. Dunlop so ye shall know him and understand why we newsmen sometimes yelp.

There isn't anything anywhere-- and most importantly, anybody-- of consequence in the labor-management- production-industrial- social (meaning martini social) complex John Dunlop doesn't know. And he always works with the top.

Best description of Dunlop is in two unreported incidents. Some years ago some of us flew to Rome from various points in Europe for a labor-industrial- cultural conference during which the Pope was to be visited. We scooted in under a lowering ceiling. But Donlop's plane, winging from the U.S., had to circle Rome several times and was finally forced to head back for Paris.

Legend has it Dunlop took this as a personal insult and sought out the highest power to protest the meteorological affront. Only the American ambassador was available in Paris. Had the Almighty been reachable, Johnny Dunlop would have gone to that final authority. So he slept in Paris. But only because he couldn't reverse the weather.

But in the labor-management field there's little or few he hasn't been able to reverse or argue, bully, push, shove, cajole, arm- twist since he began in this field some 35 years ago.

And then there's that morning in the White House cabinet room about a year ago when President Nixon summoned the construction industry's labor and business leaders. With them came Johnny Dunlop, loaded with charts. They proved to the President that all was running smoothly and that they were one big, big, happy, happy family in the tribe- ridden $110 billion (annual) industry.

President Nixon asked how they managed to work together so effectively-- and quitely-- and how strikes had been cut in half and how the rate of pay increases was slowed. Both sides obviously had combed what was left of their hair so the scars didn't show. But they had been working together. And, in full consensus, they told Dick Nixon Dunlop was the "glue" which held them together. That's good, said the President mockingly rapping the desk. Those in the other industries come in fueding with each other and pounding the table.

So it doesn't look like any stick will be taken out of the closet.

Dunlop, new director of the Cost of Living Council, who now has Mr. Nixon's and Shultz's mandate as pay- price czar, doesn't clobber. He hasn't as chairman of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee which he will continue to run.

He uses power brokerage, intellectual leverage and a sort of mystical method of painlessly extracting just a little more money from employers to avoid a crisis, strike or public rhubarb. When the dying Pay Board got in his way he simply bypassed it and went to George Shultz. He stayed behind the scenes above the battle.

Thus he is the total symbol of the White House Phase Three philosopjy. Labor leaders feel no pain. They can deal with Dunlop. They know the pay increase standard still is a "voluntary" 5.5 per cent annually. But with Dunlop's special arts and sciences it will be higher and it will still look mighty like 5.5 per cent. And the employers will be promised and probably will get the concessions and productivity they seek.

That's why all the labor leaders invited to join the labor- management advisory committee of the Cost of Living Council accepted. The trade- off is there-- if their rank and files don't get overly greedy during the approaching massive collective bargaining in the '73-'74 season. Then Phase Three will phase out controls.

That's why George Meany, AFL— CIO president, who broke up the original tripartite Pay Board by leading a traditional labor walkout, swiftly praised the President's proposals.

The long presidential message to Congress and the intricate Phase Three proposals were officially available to newsmen at about 10 a.m. Thursday. The stories did not appear for hours. Yet the Meany statement was available about lunchtime. Obviously, the full text of the President's message had been cleared carefully with Meany and his advisory board colleagues, steel's I.W. Abel, the Seafarers' Paul Hall, as well as with the Teamsters' Frank Fitzsimmins and even with George McGovern's intimate, the auto workers' Leonard Woodcock.

And virtually all the businessmen on the advisory committee are respected by labor and are Johnny Dunlop's kind of commerce and industry executives.

The President and Shultz, with a lateral pass to Dunlop, actually have thrown the economic ball to the labor and industrial leaders. The White House theory is that if this voluntarism doesn't work, it will be the fault of the labor-management complex. And who then can blame him if he gets tough in many fashions at the beginning of '74?

It's a chancy game plan. But it sure is being chanced.

Unless, of course, the President has reason to believe the Vietnamese war is over.

Yes, the world is too predictable. It would be more interesting — and probably a lot more fun — if fantasy instead of fact were given more rein, and the unexpected happened more often.

Why, indeed, should our existence be so ruled and confined by the rut marks we make in our daily lives? Do we restrict our horizons out of ineptitute, laziness, ignorance of larger views, or shameful cowardice of spirit? We give up too much of our human possibility to the shibboleths of common sense and safety?

We escape our cramped confinement chiefly through our daydreams. Wouldn't it be a lovelier and more livable world if those daydreams came true more often?

For example, to name a few daydreams, wouldn't it make for a livelier 1973 if—

Margaret Mead married Dr. Henry Kissinger and told him really how to solve his problem?

Dr. Joyce Brothers ran off with the gypsies and became a fortune teller?

Phyllis Diller's former husband Fang were allowed to tell in public his side of the story of his life with her?

Anytime any employe had a birthday, the boss would put gin in the water cooler?

Muhammad Ali became a sheik in Araby?

The proverb "All that goes up must come down" could be applied to taxes?

A fire plug was invented that would do to a dog the same thing the dog did to it? Can't you imagine the dog's expression?

People enjoyed themselves in church half as much as they act like they do in night clubs?

Television would finally solve the problems of upset stomachs, bad breath and armpit odors in America and go on to higher matters?

Every girl suddenly had red hair and green eyes?

Everybody got what he wanted — and nobody got what he deserved?

We could live just one week in this world without the feeling we were walking through a slaughterhouse?

If- !!! But could we stand it, if all our daydreams came true?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
More on the Watergate 7

WASHINGTON — We can now shed more light on the backstage efforts to persuade the Watergate defendants to plead guilty and save the White House the embarrassment of a public trial.

On December 26, we reported that the Justice Department had discreetly sounded out some of the defendants about entering guilty pleas. The prosecutors were cautious in their conversations with defense lawyers. But more direct messages were relayed through E. Howard Hunt, the former White House aide and CIA veteran.

At first, the defendants held out for a softening of the charges. The five who were caught inside Democratic headquarters, for example, wanted the break-in charged reduced to illegal entry. This would have made their offense a simple misdemeanor.

Any cutting back of the charges, however, would have looked like a fix. So instead, the mystery men behind the scenes used pressure and persuasion. They also alternately stopped and resumed the cash payments that had been promised to the defendants.

In return, the defendants hinted they might make some embarrassing revelations if they were abandoned. Some indicated they might write books about their experiences, telling all.

Hunt agreed to plead guilty, apparently with a tacit understanding that he wouldn't have to spend too long in jail. He urged the other defendants privately to follow his example.

CIA VISITORS

Some of the defendants, who had been involved with Hunt in the Bay of Pigs operation, also received private visits from some of their former CIA comrades. The visitors brought expense money and also offered to make regular payments to the defendants' families. A $1,000- a - month figure was mentioned.

Our sources could not, or would not, identify the men behind the scenes. We can report only that most of the money for the defendants was funneled through Hunt. He delivered part of the cash to Bernard Barker, who distributed it to the men he had recruited for the Watergate misadventure. Hunt's wife was carrying $10,000 in cash when she was killed in a Chicago airliner crash.

Footnote: At the outset of the trial, the prosecutors made a remarkable agreement not to introduce the most damning evidence the FBI had dug up. This was a detailed diary that one of the defendants, Eugenio Martinez, had kept. As a minor functionary for the CIA, he was required by the CIA to keep a record of his activities. Those who have had access to the diary, however, tell us Martinez, in true CIA fashion, used code names to identify all his contacts and associates. Nevertheless, the diary provides an excellent record of the espionage operation at the Watergate.

PENTAGON CENSORSHIP

— The Pentagon has acknowledged that orders went out on December 30 to all personnel, civilian and military alike, to keep their mouths shut about military activities and peace prospects in Southeast Asia. Not reported, however, was the sweeping nature of the order. American pilots flying combat missions over North Vietnam, for example, were specifically prohibited from talking to newsmen. A special directive stipulates: "The no comment guidance specifically precludes interviews at all levels and with air crews in particular." Even the Coast Guard, though it doesn't come under Pentagon jurisdiction, submitted to the censorship order. Admiral Chester Bender, the Coast Guard Commandant, ordered all his people to report press queries not to their superiors in the Transportation Department but to the Defense Department.

ZUMWALT'S ELEPHANTS

— Admiral Elmo Zumwalt, the Navy chief, recently ordered two ceramic elephants delivered to him from South Vietnam. The tiny pachyderms were shipped free of charge by Pan Am. This happens to be patently illegal. When we asked the admiral's office about this, they told us he would pay the shipping charge. The cost of shipping, we have learned, is more than Zumwalt paid for the elephant icons.

ARMY ORIGINALITY — To boost morale, the Army Materiel Command recently held a contest to name its new national headquarters. More than 524 names were suggested, and the AMC's official Contest Committee to Name the New Building solemly studied the offerings. At last, Maj. Gen. Charles T. Horner, the AMC chief of staff, announced with pride: "The name of the new AMC building is the AMC BUILDING." The lucky winners, Francis Sikorski, received $100 in appropriated monies for his shrewd suggestion.

Kevil, M.Q. Tanner, A. Ray Smith, C.F. McMullin, P.H. Gervig, E.C. Matthews and L. M. Stallcup. A committee on location was appointed, which is composed of: H.A. Smith, chairman, and W.H. Tanner and Jos. L. Matthews. The membership committee is composed of A. Matthews and H.C. Young.

J.A. Andres' Meat Market on Prosperity street, caught fire Sunday and was badly damaged. The origin of the fire is unknown, although it is supposed that it was caused by an electric light wire in the rear room of the shop. This is the third time that butcher shops operated by J.A. Andres in Sikeston have been lost by fire. In 1919, the Andres' Meat Market, which was then located at the southwest corner of Kingshighway and Front streets, was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The firm went into business again in a building just east of the Malone Theatre, at the intersection of Malone avenue and New Madrid street. Only a little more than a year had passed when another mysterious fire destroyed the meat market. Mr. Andres intends to reopen his place within the next few days.

Out of four basketball games played by Sikeston teams the past week, three of them were won and one was lost. The boys' team won from the Cairo high school team last Thursday night on the Mecca Hall court and lost the next night to the Central High School team at Cape Girardeau. Thursday night Bridges Consolidated School was defeated by the girls here. On the next night, Friday, the locals won again from the New Madrid girls' team at New Madrid.

Letters to the Editor

I do not think that I will be contributing to the Bach Mai Hospital Fund. While serving in South Vietnam, North Vietnamese forces blew up our hospital in Tay Ninh Base Camp. I did not see any North Vietnamese government officials or private citizens raising funds to rebuild this hospital.

It irks me to see antiwar groups critical of so- called U. S. atrocities in Indochina. They seem to forget those atrocities committed by the Communist.

The case of the tackled damsel

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

With the first hint of all, Herman eagerly grabbed his football and hustled his neighbor, Mr. Fatso, out into the street where they began to pass the pigskin back and forth. And while they no doubt viewed themselves as All-Americans as they passed and caught the ball, they were actually old Americans, except in spirit.

And it was in this spirit that Herman heaved a long pass to his enthusiastic and potbellied neighbor who chased it down the street with open arms as if he was Al Jolson singing "Mammy!"

Unfortunately, in watching the ball instead of where he was running, the ungamely Mr. Fatso crashed into the comely Miss Smith, who happened to be crossing the street at the time. Thrown for a loss, the irate Miss Smith sued "All-American" Herman for her injuries.

"I'm not responsible," protested Herman in court. "Fatso ran into her, not me."

"But he's the one who threw the pass," was Miss Smith's answer. "And he was careless in throwing it in my direction. While I may have had passes thrown in my direction before, they never had anything to do with wootball."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make "All-American" Herman pay Miss Smith for her injuries?

This is how the jduge ruled: NO! The judge held that throwing a football is not, in and of itself, a negligent act. While Herman may have thrown the football in the vicinity of Miss Smith, noted the judge, he had no control over Mr. Fatso and, logically, he had no reason to expect him to run into and collide with Miss Smith. Mr. Fatso, concluded the judge, was master of his own course and not Herman.

Cobb- Bishop

EAST PRAIRIE — A candlelight ceremony at First Church of God was the setting for the wedding of Miss Debbie Bishop and Rick Cobb. The Rev. Bill Piatt officiated at the double-ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 30.

Miss Bishop is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bishop, and Cobb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cobb.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. James Scott, organist, played nuptial music and then accompanied Mark Hurt, cousin of the bride, as he sang, "Always", "The Wedding Prayer" and "One Hand, One Heart", as the couple knelt.

Joyce Davis and Janie Gogue lighted the tapers in two arch and one spiral candelabras which were entwined with greenery. The choir railing was also draped with greenery.

The ceremony of the candles was performed signifying the union of the bride and groom, using a large Christ candle for the center candle.

Miss Susan Bishop served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Valaree Cobb, sister of the groom, Jean Savell and Sandra and Carol Arington. Junior bridesmaid was Tammy Jackson of Horn Lake, Miss. cousin of the bride.

Miss Bishop wore a formal gown of cognac crepe-back satin with an overgown of a darker shade of chiffon. The bodice featured a scooped neckline and bouffant sleeves. A floral band and bow in shades of green and gold encircled the waist and matched the hair ribbon. The billowy skirt was enhanced with a deep ruffle of chiffon.

Attendants wore identical gowns of different shades. Miss Davis and Miss Hogue wore gowns of gold with dark chiffon overlay; the others wore camel with darker chiffon. All carried a single long-stemmed yellow rose. Miss Kim Sater, cousin of the groom, was the flowergirl. She wore a dress of camel, crepe-back satin, styled with an overgown of chiffon with billowy sleeves and a straight skirt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal Bridal Originals gown of acetate peau with Venice lace motifs which accented the Basque bodice, sleeves and sweep of the chapel train. Tiny, covered buttons traced a line from the v-neckline to the waist, along the sleeves at the wrist and down the back of the gown. Bows of acetate peau accented the back waistline and were attached at vantage points down each side of the gown. Her elbow-length veil of illusion cascaded from a headpiece fashioned of a satin bow, Venice lace and seed pearls.

She carried a nosegay of yellow and white rosebuds and bridal wreath. Her wedding slippers of white lace and leather were those worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The groom chose his father as best man. Groomsmen were Stanley Smith, David Hale, Bob Hanor and Tony Parker. Junior groomsman was Charles "Chuck" Morgan, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Robert Abernathy and Avery Hutcheson.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Cobb received their guests in the youth chapel of the church. The bridal table was covered with a crepe-back satin cloth of camel hue, and centered with a two-branch silver candelabra and floral arrangement of yellow baby mums and greenery. The three-tiered cake was topped with a Christogram, the symbol of marriage in Christ.

Miss Lisa Morgan, cousin of the bride, attended the guest register and Miss Shelia Thresher, another cousin of the bride, handed wedding programs and rice bags to the wedding guests.

Mrs. Cobb attended Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau last semester and plans to resume her studies at Anderson next fall.

Ann Landers

Sexless couple too much for Ann

Dear Ann Landers: Our hearts go out to those sex-starved wives who write to Ann Landers and complain about cold, indifferent, clumsy and sloppy husbands who are lousy lovers. My husband and I solved the problem 40 years ago, after five years of marriage. We dicided not to have any sex. Sex is nothing more than a habit that causes children, disease, mental illness, divorce, crime and murder. Every rotten thing in this world can be traced to sex. It is also a lot of trouble and rarely worth it.

Don't tell me sex is natural. Many things in nature are repulsive, such as a cat eating a bird, etc.

I hope you will print this letter so the women in your reading audience who have sexless marriages will realize that they are actually blessed.--- J. and J., Winter Park, Florida

Dear J. and J.: How marvelous that you two kooks found each other. It would have been unfortunate if either of you had married a well-adjusted, normal person. A couple who equates children with disease, mental illness and murder is too much for me to deal with in this space. But thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: If you publish this letter it could save someone from a serious accident, or even death.

A young woman I know was driving her new car. She had her baby with her. The gas pedal stuck, she became panicky and put the car in reverse. The car spun around and crashed into a house. Fortunately, no one was at home. The baby was not hurt but the young woman was painfully injured and she is lucky to be alive.

Here's how to avoid tragedy if your gas pedal sticks! Turn off the ignition and apply the brakes. The engine will stop.--- N. Name, Please

Dear N.N.: Thanks for your letter. I will repeat the key line for the benefit of speed readers. If the gas pedal sticks--don't panic. Simply turn off the ignition and apply the brakes.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the bride who had spent a fortune on a satin and lace wedding gown and was bemoaning the fact that she had invested so much money in a dress she could wear only once. Her question was, "Would it be all right to have the gown shortened, tinted another color and use it as a cocktail dress? You told her no-- that it would probably look like a made-over wedding gown. Well, Ann, I have a better idea.

Twenty- two years ago I, too, spent a fortune on a wedding gown, but I got my money's worth out of it. I've worn it 21 times since I was married in it -- as an anniversary gown and it still looks beautiful! What a lovely way to renew a marriage. It's like being a bride again! Give them the word, will you? It's a great idea.--- Eternal Bride.

Dear Eternal: I agree, it's a great idea-- but 95 per cent of the women out there who have been married over 20 years could no more get into their wedding gowns that they could walk across Lake Michigan. To those who can-- my heartiest congratulations. To those who can't, save the gown for your daughter.

P.S. A word to you needle-artist husbands: Before you hand this column to the wife and ask her if she could get into her wedding gown, go try to get into your wedding pants.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35c in coin to this newspaper.

Dolphins...super champs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Welcome to the Super Bowl Fish Fry," said the bedsheet banner in the massive Memorial Coliseum. However, it was the Washington Redskins who got neatly sauteed by pro football's unbeatable underdogs, the Miami Dolphins.

"Washington's Championship Menu: Filet of Dolphin," said another homemade paean to Coach George Allen's OverTheHill Gang. However, it was Miami quarterback Bob Griese who feasted on the tasty gaps in the Redskins' defense.

It was bullish Larry Csonka who gobbled up the Coliseum turf. It was Manny Fernandez who chewed up the Washington ground game. It was Jake Scott who speared the Redskin aerial attack like a hungry interloper amid trays of hors d'ouvres.

And when the banquet was over on Sunday, the Miami Dolphins, with a victory in Super Bowl VII far more convincing than the final 14-7 score, had become the National Football League's first team to munch their way through an entire season without so much as a tie to blemish their record.

With the American Conference's top offense and equally supreme defense, they had barreled through the year with a 14-0 record. Then, in a pair of come-from-behind efforts, they'd nudged past Cleveland 20-14 and Pittsburgh 21-17 for the AFC title.

And finally, as underdogs of anywhere from one to three points, they marched into Super Bowl VII, silently determined to shove into the background their 24-3 humiliation at the hands of the Dallas Cowboys in the championship game of a year ago.

They didn't just push it into the background. They obliterated it.

"I don't know what I'm gonna tell these guys in training camp," Coach Don Shula said in the jubilant Miami locker room, "except maybe, 'we gotta win the College All-Star Game.'

"There was always the empty feeling of not having accomplished the ultimate," said Shula, who twice had taken teams into the Super Bowl and twice had come away a loser. "This is the ultimate."

The scoring statistics are simple. A 28-year Griese-toHoward Twilley touchdown pass with one second to go in the first quarter and a one-yard Jim Kiick plunged with 18 to go in the second. But that hardly tells much of a story.

Washington's scoring is a bit more complicated—and it tells an important story. It was the defense, helped by a frenzy of confusion, that got the points. Garo Yepremian's 42-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Bill Brundige and, when the Cypriot place-kicker recovered the ball and tried to pass it, he lost the handle.

Cornerback Mike Bass snatched it in mid-air and galloped 49 yards down the left sideline for the touchdown which, with 2:07 to play, averted the ultimate ignominy for Washington.

Suddenly, the record championship crowd of 90,182 fans— and the estimated 75 million television viewers, including those in unblacked-out Los Angeles—had themselves a close game. They waited for the onside kick. But it never came.

"There was too much time left," Allen said. "You just try to kick deep, hold them and maybe block the punt." But they didn't hold them until barely a minute remained. They didn't block the punt, a 40-yarder by Larry Seiple that dumped the Redskins back on their own 30-yard line.

Then, after three incomplete passes by Billy Kilmer and a final crushing quarterback sack that left him staring helplessly at the smog-laden California sky, the Dolphins, for their 60 minutes of work, were each $15,000 richer—closer to $25,000 if you include the AFC playoff shares.

Griese, who played it protectively cozy in the second half, finishing the game with eight completions on 11 passes for 88 yards, was dynamite in the first half of his first start since the fifth game of the season, when leg and ankle injuries brought Earl Morrall in as the signal-caller.

In the first two periods he went 6-for-6 for 75 yards. And he would have been 8-for-8 for 142 yards had not a 20-yarder to Marv Fleming and a 47-yard scoring bomb to Paul Warfield been wiped out by penalties.

There was still plenty of time as the second half began and Kilmer, who finished with completions on half of his 28 passes for 104 yards, didn't seem about to waste it.

Four successive completions—11 yards to Jerry Smith, 15 to Charley Taylor, then 15 and seven to Roy Jefferson, and the 'Skins were on the Miami 17.

But as suddenly as Kilmer had found his arm, he lost it— and he lost eight yards when Fernandez blew in to dump him. So it was up to Curt Knight to put Washington on the scoreboard.

He didn't. The place-kicker who had booted seven straight field goals in the NFC Playoffs against Green Bay and Dallas missed from 32 yards out.

"I simply did not throw that well today," said Kilmer, looking forward glumly to his role next Sunday in Dallas as quarterback of the NFC All-Star team in the Pro Bowl. "I think if I had thrown well we would have beaten them ... that game next week doesn't mean a thing any more. Not without this one.

"We figured we had to run against Miami but their overall defense is so good that we couldn't get anything started." Larry Brown, who had led NFC rushers with 1,216 yards, managed 72 of Washington's 141 ground yards against the Dolphins, and he needed 22 carries to do it.

Csonka, meanwhile, brushed aside Redskin tacklers all day, piling up 112 yards. Forty-nine of them came in one explosion charge through half the Redskins on the field with five minutes to go in the third quarter.

Allen said there were plenty of things to be upset about. One of them was an apparent fumbled snap by Miami center Howard Kindig in the opening minutes, one which Redskins' linebacker Harold McLinton slapped loose, then recovered on the Dolphins' 25-yard line.

The officials nailed McLinton for illegal procedure. It gave Miami a second chance to punt and this one was good, a 50-yard boomer by Seiple.

And there was a fumbled punt by Scott later in the first period. The Redskins might have had the ball on the Dolphins' 37—but Dick Anderson recovered for Miami.

"That was the biggest play of the first half," Allen said. "If we'd gotten that ball—and I feel we would have scored—we could have gone ahead and it would have been a different ball game."

One thing was different. President Nixon, who had avidly supported Miami a year ago in its Super Bowl loss, switched his allegiance this year to the Redskins and saw his heroes go down to defeat from the Florida White House in Key Biscayne.

Raiders claim title

POPLAR BLUFF — Spewing, sputtering and then unleashing a devastating attack, the Three Rivers Community College Raiders rushed to the championship of the Classic of Champions tournament Saturday night, dropping Lake Land College of Mattoon, Ill., 88-65 in the title bout.

Lindsey Wilson of Columbia, Ky., claimed third place honors in the four-team affair, beating Jackson State of Jackson, Tenn., 71-67.

Coach Gene Bess' Raiders jumped out to a 20-8 lead through the first six minutes of action, but failed to hold off the high-powered Lake Land offense and fell behind 45-44 at half.

"We just couldn't stand prosperity," Bess emphasized as he reviewed the game and referred to his team's good start. "But we held our composure."

Three Rivers stormed back in the second half, tightening its defense and choking off the Lake Land offense to just 23 points in the final 20 minutes of play.

"There isn't any way they (Three Rivers) are 23 points better than us," controversial Lake Land Coach Howard Garrett commented. "We are a 15-point better club than they are and we'd prove it on a neutral floor," Garrett said.

Garrett was tagged with a technical foul and had one of his players ejected for striking a Three Rivers athlete.

"It (the player ejection) would never have happened if the officials had controlled the game better ... they let it get out of hand," Garrett pointed out.

Wendall Copeland, a sophomore from Van Buren, came off the bench to provide the offensive spark that produced 44 Three Rivers points in the second half. The reserve forward ended the game with 16 points and trailed TRCC freshmen Mike Edwards of Columbus, Ga., by three points for game honors.

Ron Johnson, another reserve to add a big plus and 13 points to the Raiders' second half surge, ended the game with 13 markers and seven rebounds. Mark Baker of New Madrid and Lennies McFerren of Howardville rounded out TRCC's double-figure scoring with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Jay Elliott, a 6- foot- 8 sophomore, scored 18 points for Lake Land's top offensive effort and was named the event's most valuable player after a 40-point showing in Friday's opening contest against Lindsey Wilson. The talented postman had 16 points in the first half Saturday and had accumulated six blocked shots and almost a dozen rebounds but got into foul trouble and sat out a lot of the second half.

Joining Elliott on the all-star squad were teammates Doug Griggs and Perry Hines and Three Rivers stars Dennis Sims, Mark Baker and Lennies McFerren, along with Larry Flemming of Lindsey Wilson and Pete Pullen of Jackson State.

The victory raised the Three Rivers record to 10-3 on the season while Lake Land's dropped to 10-5.

Missouri finds No. 13 unlucky

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The fifth-ranked Missouri Tigers, who found out for certain Saturday night that No. 13 is an unlucky number, will try to pick up the pieces tonight when Coach Norm Stewart sends his forces against the Colorado Buffaloes at Columbia, Mo., in a Big Eight Conference basketball game.

The Tigers, who had won 12 in a row, went down to defeat at the hands of defending champion Kansas State 70-55. If pressure had anything to do with the licking, it's off now.

Stewart denies that pressure was a factor.

Of the possible element, Stewart said:

"Each game is such a challenge that you can't worry about it. Anyway, we won't have to worry about it now, will we?"

The Tigers will be playing a Colorado team tonight that also lost Saturday night. The Buffs were whipped by Kansas 67-58. Both teams are 0-1 in league play.

Iowa State maintained its grip on first place in the standings by scoring a pulsating televised 94-91 triumph over Oklahoma, and Oklahoma State tripped Nebrsska 68-55.

Oklahoma, 0-1, goes to Nebraska, 0-1, in the only other game on tonight's schedule.

In beating the Tigers, the Wildcats, 17th ranked and 1-0 in the conference, manhandled John Brown, who twice was involved in flareups with Kansas State's Larry Williams. Brown was checked on 14 points, far below his 22-point average.

The Wildcats' star guard, Lon Kruger, missed the action because of an injured ankle. Bob Chipman replaced him and made 17 points. Williams sank 20.

Wildcat Coach Jack Hartman admitted he made adjustments in the team's zone for the game but wouldn't say whether the change was designed to stop Brown.

A 17-point bombardment by reserve guard Eric Heft was responsible for Iowa State's victory over the Sooners, whose freshman ace, Alvan Adams, hit a career high of 38 points and pulled down 17 rebounds. Heft, wh got 20 points, settled the issue with a drive-in basket with one minute, 25 seconds remaining and two free throws with three seconds left. Iowa State is 2-0.

A poor 39 per cent shooting average from the floor was good enough for Oklahoma State to conquer the Cornhuskers. The victory evened the Cowboys' conference record at 1-1. Andy Hopson, with 18 points and 20 rebounds, topped State. Freshman Jerrell Fort and Kent Reckeway each canned 12 points for Nebraska.

Kansas, 1-0, ended a fivegame losing streak against the Buffs, losers of seven of their last eight outings. Rick Suttle bucketed 18 points for the victorious Jayhawks, who haven't lost a conference game at home since 1969. Scott Wedman's 16 points were high for Colorado.

The rest of this week's schedule:

Saturday—Kansas State at Oklahoma, afternoon; Kansas at Missouri; Iowa State at Oklahoma State.

SHS Matmen busy

Coach John Heacox's Sikeston Bulldog mat squad of three freshmen and nine sophomores captured the third place trophy Saturday in the seven- team Sikeston invitational freshman-sophomore wrestling tourney in the SHS fieldhouse.

Sikeston drew six first round byes— more than any other team in the tournament — which hurt the team point total because no team points were awarded for byes. The Bulldogs finished 15 points behind the first place Ste. Genevieve Dragons and only one point behind the second- place Jackson Indians.

Steve Nowell, wrestling in the 98- pound division, was one of Sikeston's nine medalists. After a bye in the first round, Nowell followed with successive pins over Bequett of Ste. Genevieve and Gibbs of Jackson to win his second tourney title of season.

Tom Bridger, a 105-pounder, won three matches over Sago of Flat River, Wright of Jackson and Warner of Ste. Genevieve to bring his record to 11-0 for the season and also his second tourney win.

The other undefeated Bulldog wrestler, 112- pound Scott Hutchison, pinned Denson of Dexter and Robinson of Charleston and went on to beat Jaco of Jackson by a 10-1 decision in the championship round. Hutchison also has two tournament wins to his credit.

In the 119- pound division, Sikeston's Jerry Lewis beat Seabaugh of Cape Girardeau in a 5-0 decision after receiving a bye in the first round before losing to Wolke of Ste. Genevieve in the championship match to settle for second place.

Mike Crabb, a 126-pounder, captured third place in his division by winning two of three matches after drawing a first round bye. Crabb beat Hahs of Jackson in the consolation round after pinning Ward of Charleston in the quarterfinals.

In the 138- pound division, John Ralph of SHS drew a first- round bye and lost a close 6-4 decision to Drury of Ste. Genevieve, who went on to win his division. Ralph came back to pin Thurman of Cape in the loser's bracket to ice a third place medal.

Sikeston's Tom DeRoush beat Kiersey of Dexter 8-2 and pinned Webb of Cape before losing the championship match to Amos of Jackson.

Ron Blankenship and Rhett Moore were medalists for Sikeston as they placed third in the 167-pound and heavyweight divisions respectively. Blankenship lost to Wren, who went on to win the division, and beat Williamson 5-1 in the consolation match for third place.

The three Bulldog nonmedalists, Mark Hesselrode in the 132- pound division, Bill Paxton in the 145- pound division and David Overby in the 185-pound division, all went to consolation bouts in their weight classes before losing bids for third place medals.

How the schools finished:

	team points
Ste. Genevievve	105
Jackson	90.5
Sikeston	89.5
Cape	75
Dexter	29.5
Flat River	21
Charleston	12

Coach Heacox takes his wrestling crew on the road this week to take on the Dexter Bearcats tonight, the Ste. Genevieve Dragons Thursday night and Fox High School of Arnold Saturday afternoon. The first two matches begin at 6:30 p.m. and the latter is a 2 p.m. match.

The SHS matmen will undoubtedly have their hands full with the three well- regarded grappling foes.

Income tax booklets are at post offices

A booklet that gives information on how to fill out federal income tax forms is now on sale at first, second and third class post offices in the Sikeston sectional area, Postmaster Donald Pasaka announced today.

"Your Federal Income Tax" was written by the Internal Revenue Service and contains many examples to illustrate how the tax laws apply to actual situations. A special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled- in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages where explanantions can be found for each entry on the return.

Another popular IRS publication, "Tax Guide for Small Business", will also be sold at first class offices.

This booklet answers many questions businessmen have about federal income, excise and employment taxes. It also contains a 1973 tax calendar with due dates for various tax payments.

Motor carriers forfeit $100

JEFFERSON CITY-- Two motor carriers and a shipper in Southeast Missouri have forfeited $100 apiece in lieu of penalty actions for the transportation or rock at rates lower than those set by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

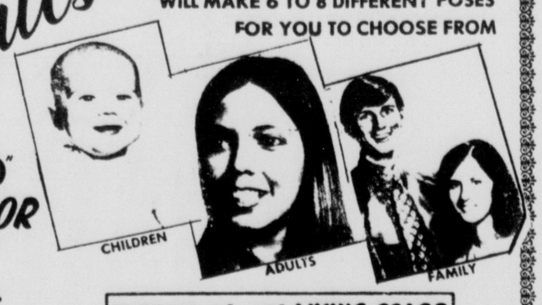

In a stipulation submitted to the commission, the shipper, Southeast Missouri Stone Company, stated that it had shipped crushed rock from Cape Girardeau to a stockpile on Interstate 55 near Portageville for $1.80 per ton from Nov. 6, 1968 to Feb. 28, 1969.

The company later was sued by several carriers and a settlement was made in April 1970.

The PSC general counsel said in the stipulation that because the conditions under which the hauling took place were not likely to reoccur, and in consideration of the action against the company by the carriers, the forfeiture would be accepted in lieu of taking court action.

The carriers, William White of Marston and William H. Nelson, now living in Florida, also agreed to a forfeiture. The money will be placed in the school fund of Missouri.

Lady, when you retire, what then?

When you retire, will you really be able to travel and enjoy life the way you've always dreamed? Will Social Security and that company pension be enough?

I can show you how a Metropolitan retirement plan can put an extra check in your mailbox every month when you stop working. It can mean all the difference between "getting by" and getting a kick out of your retirement years.
